Antioch to swell to 22,730 by 2020?

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Recent population, employment, and household forecasts of the Antioch area by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission forecast high rates of population and household growth, and low rates of employment opportunity growth to the year 2020.

This combination of numbers suggests that more people and homes will come to the Antioch area but people will have to seek employment outside the area. This may mean residential sprawl (population and household growth) and traffic congestion (people driving to work) will increase in the Antioch area.

Recent preliminary NIPC forecasts were released for public review and comment by mid-June. The forecasts were prepared as part of the planning process for the 2020 Regional Transportation Plan. These 30-year demographic forecasts include assumptions about construction of a proposed south suburban airport or continued reliance upon existing airport facilities.

Max Dieber, NIPC's Director of Research Services, said Antioch forecasts increased because of regional transportation plan effects. "Housing moves further out," he said, as a result of transportation system changes. In the Antioch area, "the

Dog Agility training builds a trusting relationship between canines and humans

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Do you trust your dog enough to remove the collar?

If there was no collar, would your dog stay?

In a Dog Agility trial, you might find out how much you love your dog and how much love there can Chris Gustafson, left, and Dottie run the Dog Agility course together at Candy's Canines in Antioch. be in return.

"Dog Agility is a great confidence builder, energy outlet, and it creates a real good bond between dog and handler," says Cheryl Carter of Candy's Canines in Antioch.

Dog Agility is a human-dog sporting event.

A dog and a human companion run through an obstacle course and are judged on the quality of their performance and the time it takes for them to complete the course properly. Both have to complete the course correctly and in a timely manner.

"Dog Agility is a very addictive sport... I have so much fun... I love to watch dogs from when they first started when they didn't have a clue and then they become champions. It's good to see," said Carter.

The dogs and human run the course of obstacles off leash and without their collars. It is not easy because there are people and other dogs around who offer all kinds of potential distractions. Heck, even the trees can be an attraction at the correct biological moment.

"We have to learn to trust our dogs," Carter says. Being without a collar is something a dog is aware of. Without a collar, dogs can sense it is different. It's another level of independence for the dog and another level of trust for the owner, Carter said. It's scary for an owner to take a collar off their dog, she said.

"It's not a very well known sport," Carter says, but she has been teaching it for a year at her school, Candy's Canines, on Spruce Drive. "I've been training and competing for four years."

The dog in her home is Wishes. "He's my original." He is a little black mixed breed dog — maybe some black Labrador and cattle dog mixed in. Whatever. The dog is not eligible for many types of competitive sports since only purebred dogs are permitted to participate.

For example, in American Kennel Club, only purebred animals can

Physician leaves practice, but not heart of Antioch

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

When Dr. Edward Abderholden opened his family medical practice in Antioch in 1958 on Main Street, he charged $125 for the birth of a baby. Today it would cost about $2,800.

Diapers, costs, and times have changed.

Thirty-nine years ago, Abderholden began a career to serve family needs about which he now can say, "It has been fun." He was the doctor a family had for all medical problems. "We did everything," he said. "It was a real family type practice."

Abderholden can tell stories of the changes and the evolution of medical practice in a small town where he was delivering 100 babies a year and had six children of his own. Today people will approach him on the street and reveal that he delivered them into the world. However, he did stop delivering babies 25 years ago.

Medicine changed in dramatic ways while he was a physician. One of the major changes he has seen relates to the money. When he started, for many people it was pay as you go. An office call was $5. It cost $75 to have a specialist eliminate a tonsil. In fact, at that time the specialist in his practice was charging less to remove tonsils than were other doctors who did them infrequently. When the specialist was asked why he charged less, he explained that since he was so good at removing them, it was an easier procedure for him. So, he charged less.

The involvement of insurance as a major factor in health care has been a major event. "That's the biggest thing that has changed," Abderholden said.

One aspect of change is the hours a doctor would practice. Abderholden had evening office hours four nights a week and also did patient checks at the hospital. His Thursday day-off was spent on the links in the morning.

Health care that's so complete, it makes everybody feel better.

And that's the big difference at Saint Therese Medical Center. Here, feeling good isn't just for patients and their families. It's for doctors, nurses, in fact, our entire staff. Because the employees of Saint Therese know of their hospital's dedication, that of hiring the most qualified personnel and keeping up on cutting-edge technology and medicine. In short, they're confident in Saint Therese's commitment to providing the best possible all around health care. So while you feel better, our staff has the privilege of feeling good about themselves.

Throughout the hospital, that dedication resounds and is found everywhere.

For starters, we believe in family health care. Whether you're having your first child or your fifth, coming in for physical therapy or teen counseling, wellness screening or senior home care, our blanket approach to the health care business is one with a little more care and a lot less business.

Saint Therese has also assembled an outstanding and highly trained medical staff. They include doctors and specialists hailing from some of the top medical schools and teaching hospitals in the country.

Moreover, Saint Therese has an ongoing commitment to the acquisition and utilization of cutting edge medical care. We boast the most advanced ambulatory surgical unit and the only in-patient rehabilitation facility in Lake County, a state-of-the-art CAT scanner and an accessible out-patient rehabilitation and sports medical center in Gurnee.

Saint Therese Medical Center. It's our complete commitment to making everybody feel better that makes us what every hospital should be.

DOGS: Agility builds trust compete. Dog agility is not like that. Everybody is eligible, once they learn the tricks of the trails. "Agility? Any dog can do it from the smallest to the largest." Same for the humans.

This is what is involved for the dog. The dog has to learn how to turn on different types of commands. The names of obstacles must be learned. The dog has to learn how to execute the obstacle properly. In some cases, the dog will leave the owner to complete the course.

"Dog agility is something that goes beyond basic obedience," it is away from a human and off collar. It is hand signals and sight that bind the two together on the course. "They have to do what you tell them," and the people have to do their part at the same time. A dog may go through a tunnel while the human is outside doing jumping jacks to the other end of the tunnel where they meet.

"There are turns and loops. It's not a straight line." They have chutes, tunnels, barrels, and A-frames to climb. "A lot of dogs are afraid of some of these circumstances."

At the end of an obstacle, the dogs "have to touch a contact zone before they leave it in order not to be faulted."

One of the more remarkable obstacles, from a dog's viewpoint, perhaps, might be the collapsed tunnel. The dog, literally, runs into a collapsed cloth tunnel and charges through to the opening at the other end. From dog-eye-level, it is a matter of trusting that one can run into a barrier, escape through it, and not be hurt by the experience. It requires a level of trust that the human with them would not mislead them about the safety of the request.

"The dogs do love it," Carter says. "We always make them successful!"

"When a dog learns agility, the owner's eyes are opened. It broadens the horizons of potential," Carter said. "It makes pet owners more aware of their responsibilities to their dog."

PHYSICIAN: Leaves practice and in the surgery in the afternoon.

Despite the constant workload, he says, "It was a nice type of practice." One reason he felt this way was because he loved what he did for a living. "It's what I always wanted to do." He liked the variety that was inherent in a family medical practice. Any kind of a medical problem could be in the next room. "That was the fun part of family practice. It was a challenge."

It was challenge to keep up with medical knowledge also. To keep himself certified with the American Academy of Family Physicians, Abderholden would attend meetings at medical conventions. "You had to keep up," he said. "Family Practice makes you recertify every seven years."

Abderholden's career in medicine extended beyond Antioch. He was president of Saint Therese Medical Center and Victory Memorial Hospital. He was a co-director of the Star-Hospice at Saint Therese.

Abderholden was assistant clinical professor at The Finch University of Health Sciences, The Chicago Medical School in North Chicago.

Abderholden plans to stay in Antioch, most of the time, maybe. In August he will head north to Alaska with wife Dolores. "We've been to almost everywhere else," he said. Switzerland, England, Ireland, Germany, Kenya in Africa, Egypt, China, Japan, and Hawaii are some of the places they have visited. "We'd like to do more traveling."

When traveling, they leave behind five sons and a daughter. Frank is a journalist for the News-Sun; Edward is an attorney; James is a sales manager for a distributing company in Madison; Mark is a mechanical engineer in Madison; and Susan works in Minnesota politics for Senator Paul Wellstone. Dr. Guy Abderholden, a fifth son, is a physician at Antioch's Orchard Medical Center with Dr. David E. Herman and Dr. Roman Dryer.

impact is small for the airport (assumptions) but much more significant for the transportation plan (assumptions)."

Some of the proposed Lake County highway and transit facilities assumed to exist in the forecasts include such projects as Metra North Central Service enhancements, Metra rail service extensions to Richmond, Route 53 extension, Metra outer circumferential commuter rail corridor, and additional lanes on I-94 from Route 22 to Route 60.

Other forecast alternatives prepared earlier by NIPC result in somewhat lower population, employment, and household estimates. The number for a 2020 population forecast, for example, using different assumptions, was 19,615 and 19,853.

In 1990, Antioch had 6,105 people. NIPC now forecasts a population for the Antioch area in 2020 of either 22,730 (assuming reliance on existing airport facilities) or 22,470 (assuming construction of the south suburban area airport). These are projected population growth rates of 272% and 268%.

In 1990, Antioch had 2,234 households. NIPC now projects a household census for the Antioch area in 2020 of either 8,656 or 8,557 households. These figures represent household growth rates of 287% and 283% respectively.

Fourth just around the corner

Plans are in the works to ensure that this year's Fourth of July celebration will be something very special in Antioch. The events planned will offer fun, food, events for everyone, not to mention Antioch's legendary Fourth of July Parade. Annual breakfast proceeds help purchase equipment, offset education costs

The Antioch Firefighters Assn. is busy preparing for their Third Annual Pancake Breakfast. Firefighters will cook pancake breakfasts at the Antioch Fire Station located at 835 Holbek Dr. on Sunday, June 29 from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Tickets will be available at the door. Ticket prices are $4 for adults; $3 for Senior Citizens; $2 for children (ages 6 to 12). In addition to the breakfast, the Antioch Fire Dept. will have their equipment on display.

In addition to the breakfast, the firefighters are selling raffle tickets. Prizes include $500, $300 and $200 and numerous prizes donated by businesses through the Antioch Fire Protection Area. Tickets for the raffles and the breakfast are available at the fire station, Monday through Friday. The drawing will take place at the breakfast.

The Antioch Firefighters Annual fund raiser is used to purchase equipment and to help offset education costs for firefighters. Some of the items the Association has helped purchase are the Water Rescue Boat and Trailer, Air Packs, Fire Gear, Personnel Alarm Devices, Pagers and Radios, Fire Prevention Materials and CPR Training Aids. This year's funds will help purchase Face Masks to be worn with the Self Contained Breathing Apparatus, and the face mask carrying cases for each firefighter, additional pagers, and Training Aids for firefighter's continuing education.

Each year the Antioch Fire Dept. conducts public education programs in the community. The Fire Prevention Bureau educates over 4,000 students in Fire Prevention during Fire Prevention month. This year they again will present programs to each of the schools. The Underwater Rescue Team is currently educating other community fire departments by helping them establish their own dive teams in conjunction with the Antioch Rescue Squad, members of the Fire Department teach CPR classes to businesses, groups and organizations. The Training Dept. structures a rigorous training program for veteran firefighters and also provides beginner training for new firefighters.

Pie-contest Update: Last week in a remote major metropolitan newspaper I wrote: "Flaky crust equals great pie. But there is no one at home to create such a pie crust, teach how to create that pie crust, mentor the creation of that pie crust." I have been informed that I am misinformed. And, upon reflection, now realize that I have eaten many mouth melting flaky pie crusts made in my own home." Forget I wrote that, please. I apologize. Last Sunday while others basted in the heat, I baked my second test pie. That one had cousin Barb's recommendations incorporated into a special high-gluten flour with another killer secret ingredient, this one from the Antioch Packing House. The Mikita 2300 XDL Power Pastry Dough Mixer with the Jordan/Nike apple coring attachment and special Black and Decker steel-belted paring knives worked as a dream. The Pippins sliced swell.

Colleagues here at the paper have now critically evaluated two pies. However, this group contains people who eat Moon Pies. I am basing my decisions on the taste for award winning apple pie on this kind of feedback? I am beginning to see some weakness in my strategy.

One more test pie and then I put it all together to get my $100 prize and certificate at the Fifth Annual July Fourth Apple Pie Contest sponsored by the Village of Antioch. I've been informed that other people also enter this contest. It could be intense.

ANTIOCH

Drug Possession

Antioch police officers stopped William E. Napierkowski, 35, Antioch, June 18 at 2:15 a.m. traveling south bound on Route 83 south of Route 173 in a 1989 Chevrolet. He was stopped after his vehicle allegedly swerved over the white fog line at the edge of the road. A check of his drivers license revealed that it was revoked in Illinois. As Napierkowski got out of the automobile, allegedly a "small clear plastic cigarette wrapper" dropped to the ground which he stepped on. The officer observed that the wrapper contained one gram of suspected cannabis. The officer was allegedly told, "You got me, I thought I covered it up with my foot."

Napierkowski was arrested for driving on a revoked drivers license and for possession of cannabis. He posted bond and was released pending a court date of July 7, 1997 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan.

DUI

Antioch police officers arrested Adam J. DeWulf, 22, Antioch, in a 1992 Ford traveling west bound on Route 173 east of Route 59. He was observed by police to cross the centerline and bump into the curb. He was traveling 55 in a 40 mph posted zone. DeWulf was evaluated by officers to have poor balance and coordination. He was charged with DUI. Bond was posted pending a July 8 court date in Waukegan.

Suspended license

Antioch police stopped John S. Lozano, 29, Trevor, Wisconsin, in a 1985 Toyota traveling east bound on North Avenue at Deep Lake Road. Their attention to his vehicle was drawn by a loud muffler hanging under the car and dragging along the ground. A check revealed that his Illinois drivers license is currently suspended. Lozano had no insurance. He was arrested and charged with having a loud muffler, driving while license is suspended, operating an uninsured vehicle, and improper use of registration. Lozano was released on $2000 recognizance bond pending a July 9 Grayslake court date.

No valid license

Antioch police stopped Arturo Castillo, 22, Antioch, for a defective right rear tail light on a 1983 Buick traveling south bound on Route 83 at Joanna Court. He was arrested for a defective tail light and not having a valid drivers license. He was released on $100 cash bond.

No seat belts

Antioch police officers issued Samantha L. Pohlman, 25, Antioch, for failure to use seat belts and driving with a suspended drivers license. She was stopped in a 1991 Pontiac traveling south bound on Route 59 from Route 173. Pohlman was released on bond pending a court date of July 23 in Grayslake at 9 a.m.

No valid license

Antioch police officers stopped David A. DeVries, 24, Antioch, in a 1996 Dodge going east bound on Orchard Avenue at Main Street. He was charged with disobeying a traffic control device and not having a valid drivers license. He was released on bond pending a court date of July 23 at 9 a.m. in Grayslake.

Firemen, park paramedics work to free youth from ride

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

A 14-year-old Waukegan youth suffered an injury to an arm which was caught and dragged while he was riding a Six Flags Great America ride.

The youth was airlifted to Children's Memorial Hospital in Milwaukee for treatment following the incident at 6:07 p.m. June 23.

The theme park's paramedics worked with Gurnee Firemen to extricate the youth from the "Viper" ride using a porta-power device.

"We estimate his hand was dragged 30 feet. We don't know why his hand was out of the ride, but it got caught between the platform and the car back. It is amazing that he has a hand," Gurnee Fire Chief Tim McGrath said.

No immediate amputation was needed, McGrath said. A hospital spokesperson said family requested no condition information be released.

The Viper is two-years old without any other incidents, according to a park spokesperson.

There were two other youths with the injured boy.

"He was in the first third of the roller coaster. The park's paramedics were at the scene when we arrived. He lost about 500 cc's of blood, which is a significant amount," McGrath said.

The inspections of the rides are done annually by the state regulatory commission. M c -

Grath had praise for the park employed paramedics, many off-duty firemen.

"The park does everything humanly possible to avoid accidents. They acted prudently and called us right away," McGrath said.

Six Flags spokesperson Kathy Krenger said the park has always had paramedics on staff.

"They were able to free him in a short period of time," she said.

Signs are posted throughout the ride as well as verbal warnings about guests keeping their hands and legs inside the coaster. Riders are harnessed into the seat and ride two across.

"An accident like this can't happen if the rules are followed," Krenger said.

I'm originally from: Buffalo, New York

I graduated from: I finished up my Masters in Business from Keller University. Basically, I got all my college education after I retired from the Navy.

My family consists of: My wife, Judy, and my daughter, Amanda.

My pets are: Two cats.

What I like best about Antioch: It's changing; it's growing. They're really going to a lot of effort to make it work as far as a 'down-town.'

The secret to my success is: A wife and daughter that back me up. And, basically, that's it.

I relax by: Reading science fiction. Piers Anthony. He is the worst "punner" in the world. I just love his books.

Last book I read: "Angela's Ashes" by Frank McCourt.

Favorite food is: Steak.

My greatest accomplishments are: It will be (this store) as far as making it a success.

My dream job would be: Owning a bookstore. I'm doing it. I found a place. Traveling as much as I did broadened my interests. Helping Judy with her business (The Tulip Patch) gave me my practical application as far as my business school. There's been a growth pattern to step up to it.

Vickie Axton, President of Friends of Centennial Playground, stands on wood chips intended for play and path areas of the park. Volunteers were to spread the 110 cubic yards of chips as part of volunteer maintenance work. The next scheduled workday is in late September or early October. Volunteers may call 395-1309 to join the group.

Park Friends' efforts foiled by foul weather

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Bad weather has twice foiled efforts by Friends of Centennial Playground to undertake their periodic maintenance program.

"Unfortunately the heavy rains of Sunday night prevented us from being able to bring in the front-end loader to move the wood chips that the volunteers were going to be spreading around the playground," said group organizer Ted Axton. He expects that they will be moved into place during up-coming weeks by volunteers and the Antioch Public Works Department.

Axton is always ready to accept calls from people who want to volunteer, he said, and he needs volunteers for the annual renewal program this fall. He accepts volunteer calls at 395-1309.

Friends of Centennial Playground is a loosely organized group, Axton noted. It was created "to do minor repairs and replace wood chips" needed to maintain the condition of the playground equipment. "We use a special wood sealer on the equipment," he said.

When the playground was created by 2,000 volunteers over five days in the early 1990s, a decision was made to use special hardwood chips that were more expensive in cost but provided multiple benefits. Part of the work done by volunteers is to distribute wood chips 6 to 12 inches deep at critical areas. Axton said the wood chips are specifically designed to absorb shocks of falling kids and also, when they compact, they become wheelchair accessible.

The next workday for volunteers is scheduled for the end of September or the beginning of October. Axton hopes to hear from more volunteers so that he knows who to immediately contact once the schedule is set.

Deep Lake Road to close

The Lake County Division of Transportation in cooperation with Centex Homes, the developer of the Painted Lakes Subdivision, will close Deep Lake Road (County Route V-67) to thru traffic from Illinois 132 (Grand Ave.) to Grass Lake Road (County Route A-10). Golden Road (County Route A-11) will be closed to traffic where it intersects with Deep Lake Road. This closure will begin on Monday, June 30, and last approximately 50 days.

The closure is due to the magnitude of the intersection improvement to safely accommodate the traffic to be generated by the new Painted Lakes Subdivision. Centex Homes must completely reconstruct the intersection of Deep Lake Road and Golden Road by lowering the intersection's elevation and raising the elevation of Deep Lake Road immediately north of Golden Road. As part of improvement Centex Homes will also be adding left turn lanes on Deep Lake Road at Golden Road. The closure of this section of Deep Lake Road at Golden Road is the safest and most expedient way of accomplishing the required work. The developer, Centex Homes will pay the entire cost of the improvement.

Local traffic will be allowed from Grand Ave. to the worksite and from the worksite to Grass Lake Road. Residents living within the work area will be allowed to enter and exit the work area from Grand Ave. Golden Road will be open to traffic from Grass Lake Road to the work area. No traffic from Golden Road will be allowed into the worksite and no traffic will be allowed to enter the worksite from Grass Lake Road.

The detour for Deep Lake Road will be Ill. Route 132 (Grand Ave.), to Ill. Route 83 (Milwaukee Ave.) to Grass Lake Road (County Route A-10).

Dave gets his 15 minutes

This is the month that Dave DeBoer celebrates his birthday, and like most people, Dave likes to be recognized in print for his accomplishments and merits rather than his wayward ways. Seeing as this is Dave's column, I would like to share story with all of you. Now the next time you see Dave, feel free to ask him about the situation, and you can bet he will gladly share it with you again, and again, and again. Of course, each time he tells it, I guarantee there will be a new twist to the plot.

He recently went into a local establishment in Antioch to pick up an ordered item. When he entered the place of business there wasn't a single worker to be found. Seeing that it was just before 1 p.m., he figured someone was in the back room finishing up their lunch.

After waiting a few minutes and calling out "hello" several times, still nobody appeared. So, after more time had passed and still nobody emerged, he peered behind some closed doors and discovered he was all alone. He then checked the posted hours on the front door and realized that this certain establishment was not open on this particular day. Oops.

Someone was in big trouble, and for once, it wasn't Dave. He suddenly realized what a precarious situation he was in and quickly took his leave of the officially closed office before his visit showed up on the police blotter. As he exited the unlocked building, one of Antioch's finest was driving by in his squad car (probably alerted by the silent alarm) so Dave flagged him down, relayed his tale and became a hero.

What a guy. Of course, no story can possibly be retold with any justice unless Dave himself re-tells his tale. So, the next time you see Dave on the golf course, or in the bowling alley or at the Lion's Chicken Bar-B-Que, be sure and ask him about his 15 minutes of fame. But, be prepared to sit back and relax, because Dave never gives the Reader's Digest Condensed Version of any story.

Happy Birthday, Dave.

The WNBA: same sport, different game

The WNBA. The Women's National Basketball Association. The WNBA opened its 10-week, 28-game season last weekend on national television (NBC) in an NBA-supported return of professional women's basketball.

Didn't we all see this before? The answer is yes... and no. Yes there were previous attempts at a professional women's basketball league, but none have been even remotely successful. But this time it's different.

In previous attempts to organize a women's pro league, many factors weighed in their eventual demise. Early attempts just were not managed well, and there wasn't the name recognition, the national exposure, publicity or enough quality players to maintain a solid fan base. In the most recent attempt, just a few years ago, the brilliant marketing team tried to get a part of the fast-paced-high-flying-dunking-in-your-face demographics that the NBA is known for. This manifested itself in skin-tight spandex uniforms and nine-foot rims—so that some of the women could dunk—which resulted in a gimmicky little-sister version of the NBA.

This didn't work for many reasons, but one stands out to me—the women's game is different than the men's game.

If you've ever watched a men's college basketball game, and then watched a women's college basketball game, you realize that the games are played differently. The women's game, some would argue, is the more pure form of the two, relying on fundamentals and highly structured offenses. The men's game goes away from that and tends toward athleticism, size and creativity. Much of the men's game is played at break-neck pace, leaping for rebounds and soaring on jump shots. Much of the women's game is played on the floor, with set-shot three-pointers and often times flat-footed rebounds—but the game is played at nearly as fast a pace.

Now, I am not saying that the women's game is inferior to the men's game, just different. And it should be treated slightly different—which is where the WNBA comes in. The marketing giant that is the NBA has crafted the WNBA in its own image, but realizing that to be successful it must begin on a moderate scale to develop a fan base. The WNBA has teams in all of the major media markets, and boasts three marquee players from the women's Olympic "Dream Team"—Sheryl Swoopes, Lisa Leslie and Rebecca Lobo. In true NBA fashion, Lobo and Leslie squared off in the opening day of the WNBA on national television as Lobo's New York Liberty met Leslie's Los Angeles Sparks. In fact, the WNBA will be seen on three national networks NBC, ESPN and Lifetime.

This bodes well for young girls looking for role models in sports, and in particular, basketball. Girls will be able to emulate the moves of Swoopes, Lobo and Leslie, not just Jordan, Pippen and Shaq.

I would like to see the WNBA flourish as a league, but at the same time I hope that none of the men's basketball fans out there switch on a WNBA game looking for the dunks and eye-popping moves of the NBA. Because, as I stated, it is a different game.

Sequoits show skills in summer

By STEVE PETERSON

Summer high school baseball is, in many ways a different animal.

Stats and numbers are scarce sometimes as players come and go from Legion teams to Colt league obligations.

Still, it is a chance for underclassmen to show their skills while varsity players have a chance to impress coaches for next spring's playing time.

Antioch split its first two summer league games. A seventh-inning 4-3 loss to Lake Zurich was followed by a 6-4 win over Hersey June 20.

"This soon in the summer, and in fact all summer, you want to look at a lot of kids. It is nice because the substitution rules do not come into play until the tournament. If you pinch-run a player, you don't have to take him out," said ACHS coach Paul Petty.

Antioch executed offensively and defensively as it beat the impending rain this Friday night.

Defensive highlights included a seventh-inning bases loaded double play. Sophomore catcher Jason Schuler, one of three receivers on the roster, ended the game with a pick-off throw to first base.

Brett McCullom, who also pitches for the Round Lake Colts, was the second pitcher used and gained his first win on the mound.

There was clutch hitting as well. A double by Gary Spiller sparked a four-run rally in the fourth. Carl Richter, Dan Shaughnessey and Ray George had key singles. George, a junior, poked his hit to right to score two runs.

"With Schuler, Reggie Hughes and Dan Pendergast, we have three of the best catchers in the county. We are catcher deep. That was not always the case when I first came here," said Petty.

Hersey closed the gap to 6-4 before the seventh-inning rally was snuffed out.

Schedules are more flexible in the summer than spring, but ACHS has a busy week ahead. The Sequoits host Lake Zurich in a rematch June 26 followed by an away game at Wheeling June 27.

Lakeland golfers thrown to the Wolves

Golf outing to benefit Illinois Center for Youth Advocacy

By DAVE SHERMAN
Staff Reporter

Lakeland Newspapers will be throwing two golfers to the Wolves Monday, July 21.

Two winners will be picked from submitted entry forms currently running in all 13 Lakeland publications to play a round of golf with current International Hockey League goal-scoring champ Steve Maltais and left-winger Tim Breslin of the Chicago Wolves. The contest is part of the First Annual Lakeland Newspapers Lake County Charity Golf Outing.

Joining the Wolves will be former members of the Chicago Bears along with Lake County community and business leaders for the purpose of raising money for the Illinois Center for Youth Advocacy. ICYA is non-profit legal and social services organization dedicated to improving the lives of Chicagoland children through education and representation.

"Many children are abused and ignored in Lake County and we are trying to make a difference," said ICYA founder and lifetime Round Lake resident Jeffrey Shook.

"Not only will the money made at the event be very helpful in our fight against child abuse and for a new computer center in the Round Lake area, but the awareness that such a large event brings to our cause is wonderful," said Shook.

The event, which is open to the public, will be held at Renwood Country Club in Round Lake Beach and will cost $65 per golfer, but foursomes are available for $200. Price includes 18 holes of golf, cart, continental breakfast provided by Jerry's Parkway, lunch provided by Subway Sandwiches, individual gift bags for each golfer, and the chance to win great prizes such as the use of an automobile for one year from Rockenbach with a hole-in-one on the 15th hole.

HOT 102.3

WXLC and WKRS will be on hand to do a live remote from the event, which will begin the shotgun start at 8:00 a.m.

For more information about the golf outing, or to reserve a spot in the event, call Lakeland Newspapers at (847) 223-8161, ext. 112 or visit the Lakeland Newspapers website at www.lnd.com. For more information about the Illinois Center for Youth Advocacy, call Jeff Shook at 546-0451.

Bulldogs to benefit from golf outing

Grant High will sponsor its annual fund-raising golf outing July 12 at Antioch Country Club.

An automobile provided by Raymond Chevrolet will be the top prize of the day. The Fox Lake dealer gave one away last year as Mark Hill netted a hole-in-one on the par-three 17th hole.

"Most people who go to the golf outing support us and we are glad to help a good cause," said Ray Scarpelli, owner.

Football coach Mark Barczak said many alumni return to tell Bulldog war stories.

The sixth annual event will help purchase such items as new helmets and uniforms for the Bulldogs.

Entry fee is $60, dinner alone a $15 donation. There are 136 spots for golfers.

The Bulldogs are looking forward to this fall's season. An unbeaten freshmen team will attempt to win varsity spots. Hill's son Lenny is competing for a lineman's starting berth.

Grant, 1-8, last year, will be an independent on the gridiron this fall.

"Time will tell if the sophomores will earn spots on the varsity," said Barczak.

Grant hosts a passing league and plans to a clinic at the end of this month with the youth football Cardinals.

For more details on the golf outing, call Fred Loffredo at 746-9010.

'I never thought much of it (Flight For Life) before. I have a different perspective after being a patient. I feel like I'll be a part of that crew forever.'

'Best of the best'

Flight for Life reunion brings victims together with the flight crews who saved them

By JASON J. KING
Staff Reporter

Sunday, March 23, started like any other day for Gurnee firefighter Robert Szczerba. Making his morning rounds at Station No. 1, Szczerba was checking the oxygen tanks in the department's ambulance.

"I was checking an oxygen cylinder in the ambulance and it was registering as empty," said Szczerba. "I thought that couldn't be right, so I brought the tank closer to my face to check the gauge. The next thing I knew, the tank exploded."

Within minutes, the ambulance was fully engulfed in flames, and Szczerba, was inside.

Szczerba said at first he thought the whole thing was a dream. Reality set in when Szczerba's co-workers began to attend to him and his wounds.

After assessing the situation, and starting what care that his co-workers could, a call was put in to Flight For Life.

Flight For Life Flight Nurse Laurie Parisi was starting her day as well when a call came in from the Gurnee fire department.

"We just knew it was an explosion," said Parisi.

There were no additional details of the incident at Gurnee, just that there had been an explosion. Within minutes the Flight For Life flight crew had lifted off and were on their way to the scene.

Later, Parisi would find out the explosion was caused by a faulty oxygen cylinder. Similar to the one that she was checking when the call came across the radio.

"It made the whole thing kind of creepy," she said.

Szczerba had no idea of the extent of his injuries as he waited for the helicopter to arrive. While being taken outside to wait however, Szczerba said that as he passed his wife's Blazer, he saw his charred face in the mirror of the vehicle.

"I started to think a lot about my family — my wife, my boys,"

Above, Gurnee firefighter Robert Szczerba, who was burned in an accident nearly three months ago, talks with Laurie Parsi, a flight nurse who worked with him on his flight from the Gurnee fire station to St. Mary's in Milwaukee, and John Wescott. 3,000 trips and 10 years of saving lives

The Flight for Life program started in January of 1984 at the Milwaukee Regional Medical Center. Three years later, Flight For Life came to Illinois and was based at the Northern Illinois Medical Center (NIMC) in McHenry. It was then, and still is, the only Emergency Medical Services helicopter located in Illinois Trauma Regions nine and 10.

The program celebrated 10 years of serving the medical needs of Northern Illinois with a patient/flight crew reunion on Saturday, June 21.

Jim Ryan, former President and CEO of the Milwaukee Regional Medical Center and William Riggs, former program director of the Flight For Life, Northern Illinois, had a tough road ahead of them when they proposed an EMS helicopter program in Northern Illinois. MedStar, a similar program, had just closed the year before and questions of the need, as well as the reception of the program weighed heavy on the two men.

The program responded to 145 calls in its first year, and in 1996 made over 400 flights. Ryan said that NIMC is one of the five smallest hospitals with flight services in the country.

Flight For Life Northern Illinois is equipped with a Bell 222UT twin-engine helicopter that is capable of

KIDS FARE

Remember, children and fireworks don't mix

Fireworks sent 136 people to the hospital last year, most of whom were children. Many suffered from second and third degree burns, while others lost their sight or their hearing, according to a survey conducted by the Office of the Illinois State Fire Marshal (OSFM).

"Fireworks are not toys for children or adults to play with," says State Fire Marshal Thomas L. Armstead. "The burns from fireworks can be intense, and they can scar for life. Fireworks can cause injuries other than burns by exploding and maiming the hands, body or eyes."

Fireworks are illegal without a permit in Illinois. OSFM urges everyone to attend professional pyrotechnic displays where the whole family can enjoy them at a safe distance.

Fireworks safety facts from the Office of the Illinois State Fire Marshal and the National Fire Protection Assn:

- Abide by all laws pertaining to fireworks.
- Always read and follow fireworks' directions.
- Do not use fireworks near dry grass.
- Do not use fireworks near flammable materials.
- Never attempt to re-light or fix fireworks that have not gone off.
- Fireworks are not toys. Never point or throw fireworks at another person.

- According to the National Fire Protection Assn. more than 11,400 people received fireworks related injuries serious enough to warrant a visit to the hospital emergency room in 1995.

- In 1996 at least 136 people were injured in Illinois according to the results of a survey of hospitals.

- Many fireworks are designed to burn hot or to explode.

- Sparklers, which many people regard as harmless, burn at temperatures of up to 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit (982 degrees Celsius).

- Keep at a safe distance from fireworks' staging areas.

- Children should always be supervised by an adult when playing with fireworks.

- Matches are tools and not toys. Children should never play with matches and should especially never use them to light fireworks.

Pet look alike contest

Have you ever noticed how some dog and cat owners look remarkably like their pets? Viewers of the television series "Coach" have noted an uncanny resemblance between actor Jerry Van Dyke and his lovable basset hound. Van Dyke is holding a "casting call" for Chicagoland pet owners and their pets. Part of a nationwide pet-owner look-alike contest, the event is Sunday, June 29, 11 a.m. to noon, at the White Stage, Navy Pier.

The Chicago portion of the contest is designed to celebrate pet-owner relationships—and resemblances—in a fun outdoor setting on the newly renovated Navy Pier. Owners, who are encouraged to come with their pets, can use Navy Pier parking, walk the short distance to the White State, and introduce their pets to Jerry Van Dyke. They may bring a photo of themselves with their pet. For further information, call (708)548-0808.

Mechanics of nature

Ever wonder how a chameleon changes color or what propels a giant squid? Visit the Milwaukee County Zoo and Ameritech's Mechanics of Nature exhibit, now through Sept. 14, to discover the magic of nature.

Ameritech's Mechanics of Nature is a special traveling exhibit designed to illustrate real-life animal characteristics, such as how a bat uses sonar, a giraffe swallows and a fly walks on a ceiling.

This interactive exhibit features The Robot Zoo sponsored by Silicon Graphics, Inc. and Time Magazine. This 5,000-square foot exhibit was designed for children to explore the biomechanics of complex animal robots to discover how real animals work. The larger-than-life size animated robots include a chameleon, a rhinoceros, a giant squid with 18-foot tentacles and a platypus. Also featured is a house fly with a 10 foot wingspread, a grasshopper, a bat and a giraffe whose head and neck is nine feet tall.

Machinery in the robot animals simulates the body parts of their real-life counterparts. In the robot animals, muscles become pistons, intestines become filtering pipes and brains become computers.

Ameritech's Mechanics of Nature also features 14 fun and educational interactive activities. Sensory activities include "Swat the Fly," a test of visitors reaction time, and "Sticky Feet," where visitors wearing special hand and knee pads can try to stick like flies to a sloped surface. Triggering the "Tongue Gun" demonstrates how a real chameleon shoots out its long sticky-tipped tongue to reel in a meal.

The zoo hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday and until 6 p.m. on Sundays and holidays. Admission is $7.50 for adults, $6.50 for senior citizens (60 and older) and $5.50 for children 3 to 12 years old. Parking is $5.

A simple story of young love and the foibles of human nature, "The Fantasticks," is as fresh and appealing today as it was when it opened in 1960. The musical is known for its melodic, humorous and at times sentimental songs, including such hit tunes as "Try to Remember" and "Soon It's Gonna Rain." A playful variation of the Romeo and Juliet theme, "The Fantasticks," is a sentimental musical for all ages.

The Largest Ship Ever Built

by JIM WARREN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Many who have not sailed on one of today's superliners still have the idea they will feel cramped on a cruise ship.

Well, let me give you just a few statistics on Carnival's newest ship, the Destiny, which, on November 24th of last year, became the largest passenger liner ever to sail.

I could bore you with figures like the Destiny has a displacement of 100,000 tons, is the length of 3 football fields and a beam (width) of 116 feet, making it the only passenger vessel too wide to transit the Panama Canal. Instead, let's talk about the stuff that really matters.

If, on a seven day cruise, you were to visit a different bar or lounge every night (such as the Point After Dance Club with its 559 video monitor night) you'd still have 10 more left for your next cruise.

This doesn't even include the five story (dock) high 1,500 seat Palladium show lounge. Carnival claims it is the most sophisticated ever to be included on a cruise ship. It has technology to provide modern special effects such as "flying" performers over the audience.

There's plenty of daytime activities, too. How many land-based resorts do you know that boast a choice of four swimming pools, two with swim-up bars, and a 214 foot water slide?

You'd also have a hard time finding a Caribbean hotel with a 15,000 square foot two-level spa like the one on the Destiny, with state-of-the-art workout facilities, juice bar, whirlpools, sauna, massage and jogging tracks.

If you think you might feel claustrophobic, even in the extra large cabins on the Destiny, just walk out onto your private balcony. Over a third of the Destiny's cabins (not just the suites) have them.

Upon boarding the Destiny, you get an immediate feeling of openness as you enter a 9 - deck high, glass domed atrium with landscaped terraces. During the day the atrium is lit by the glow of filtered sunlight. At night the stars become your ceiling.

While the Destiny's "Millionaire's Club" casino may not be quite as large as the super resorts of Las Vegas, it is the biggest to be found on a cruise ship, complete with roulette, slots, craps, Caribbean stud poker and Wheel of Fortune.

The Destiny has proved quite popular since its first sailing. If you do wish to sail on this spectacular ship, make reservations early!

He who dies with most beans

I always thought that because I have one kid for every age range—one in college, one in high school graduate, one in grade school and one in reform school (day care)—they would keep me in touch with all the latest fads and crazes. In other words, "They be in touch so I be in touch."

Unfortunately, my kids are out of touch. Way out. They are—gasp—total non-participants in the Beanie Baby craze! Believe it or not, during McDonald's recent Beanie Baby promotion, my kids never once asked to go there. Frankly, they—I'm not fibbing—do not care one bit about Beanie Babies.

Perhaps I shouldn't tell you this, because it will send shivers down the spines of Beanie Baby collectors, but my daughter Samantha did receive a few Beanie Babies for Christmas, but never plays with them. Now here's the really shocking part—she also cut their tags off! With scissors!!

Not that she was trying to mutilate them or anything. Samantha insists on cutting the tags off of every piece of clothing and every toy that she owns. Fortunately, she has not yet discovered the tags on our bed mattresses because, as we all know, mattress tags must never be removed under penalty of law. (Although I'm not sure how the law finds out when they're removed—they must be equipped with a silent mattress alarm.)

Still, Beanie Baby tag removal is not good either because, as any savvy Beanie Baby collector is aware, the tags should be kept on for authenticity and identification, so that next time there's some goof-ball out there who wants to pay $400 for your $5 bean bag toy, you can be ready to collect the big bucks.

And that is the catch-22 of col-

LIFE'S A BEAR

lectible toys—in order to make money on them later, the toys have to remain in good condition, preferably with the tags attached and still in their original package.

I don't understand how people manage to do that. I cannot picture having this conversation with my child: "Here it is, honey—the toy you've been dying to have. I'm going to put it right here up on this shelf and you can look at it whenever you want. You can't open the box or play with it, but don't worry—someday it will be worth lots of money and you'll be glad you took such good care of it."

Personally, I think that would be sort of like buying a nice steak for my dog and hanging it on a string over her head, just out of reach.

But what do I know? Obviously, neither my kids nor I were born with any savvy about the world of collecting—one more reason why I'm writing this column instead of touring the south of France. I'm embarrassed to say that I did not even save my four original Beatle dolls. (Yeah, yeah, yeah...yeah!)

But I don't feel too bad about missing out on the beanie baby craze. I think I can live with the fact that someday, those savvy collectors who paid hundreds of dollars on the "beanie baby black market" for a furry bag of beans with a tag will have something to show their grandchildren that I won't have:

An overpriced, furry bag of beans with a tag.

Beautiful baby contest held at fair the Lake County RTL office, P.O. Box 586, Grayslake, IL 60030. Photos may be no larger than 3 x 5 inches with the child's name and address on the back. MOVIE PICK

Sandra runs out of 'Speed'

Jason Patric finds himself dangling from a broken life boat cable, jumping onto a speeding seaplane and more to keep special effect addicts on the edge of their seats during all the explosions and other catastrophes in the action thriller "Speed 2."

In the action thriller, "Speed 2," or "Too Bad Keanu Reeves Said No," director Jan de Bont uses just about every speeding vehicle available to have this film live up to its name, to no avail.

"Speed" returnee, Sandra Bullock, who outdoes her first cute-as-a-button performance by going just one cute step too far, and her new co-star Jason Patric, career through this flick on motorcycles, four wheelers, speed boats, cruise ships and even an airplane.

From a script too improbable even for a summer blow-up bonanza, to a bland, though good looking hero, a heroine who flips through the film seemingly laughing at the whole thing, to the least scary villain yet, grimacing Willem Dafoe, "Speed 2," is the perfect example of how to waste $200 million.

The twists and turns of "Speed 2," fail to peak interest, and only had us groaning "Right!" or "No way," over and over again.

It seems Sandra and Keanu are passé and she picks up with Patric whom she thinks is the local beach cop. When she finds out he's just as big a daredevil as Reeves is, they almost break up, but Patric's offer of a Caribbean cruise rekindles her interest as it would have with any clean cut, non-materialistic American heroine.

Little do they know that Dafoe, who has created all the computers on their "Love Boat," is out to sink it in making a statement of extreme disappointment to the cruise company for dropping him like a hot potato because he's sick.

Will Dafoe succeed in bringing Davey Jones a new treasure? Will Bullock and Patric get just one tiny piece of chemistry cooking? Will Patric wake up and stop sleepwalking nasally through his role? Will Sandra remember she's an actress and this is not just a showcase for her legendary pertness?

Reeves received no kudos for acting in this film's predecessor, but he and Bullock created a lot of charisma together. If you thought a speeding, gap-jumping bus was unbelievable, you ain't seen nuttin' till you see Patric evacuate a slew of passengers from a dangling lifeboat while dangling himself from a broken cable, rescue a deaf girl who can't scream, from a jammed elevator, and flooding ship, or jump on a speeding seaplane, all without disrupting one hair on his handsome countenance.

Sad to say, this movie will probably make the mega bucks, especially during its first weekend when local theaters are showing it on three screens, all on the strength of "Speed." But the new "Batman" flick and Julia Roberts, looking and acting like "Pretty Woman," are due to knock it down the very next weekend.

We give this PG-13 rated picture, 2.5 out of five stars unless you are a special effects freak who is satisfied as long as the explosions and other catastrophe's continue.—By Gloria Davis said Szczerba. "I was afraid that my lungs would close up."

Szczerba's wife and two boys were heading to church that morning. On the way there, one of Szczerba's sons noticed the Flight For Life helicopter take off — not knowing that his father was the one being transported.

Parisi has been a member of the flight crew for five years and said the hardest emergencies to respond to are the ones where a fellow EMS person is the victim.

"I knew a lot of the guys at Gurnee," said Parisi.

"It was a hard thing. When you work on one of your own it's difficult to keep the personal from the professional."

On first sight, Parisi offered a grim outlook on Szczerba's condition.

"I didn't think he would ever use his hand again. I thought he would lose it."

Szczerba suffered burns to 14 percent of his body, including second degree burns to his face, torso and thighs, and third degree burns to his left arm.

Szczerba said that the flight nurse, Parisi, comforted him during the flight to the St. Mary's Hospital Burn Unit in Milwaukee.

All he could see of Parisi were her eyes he said, but feeling her touch and hearing her voice aided in the comfort.

"They're the best of the best," said Szczerba of the Flight For Life crew. "They were very calm and very professional."

"I never thought much of it (Flight For Life) before. I have a different perspective after being a patient. I feel like I'll be a part of that crew forever."

Parisi downplayed all the talk of being heroes during the reunion.

"We do this all the time," said Parisi. "I don't think any of us feel that way (as heroes)."

The members of the flight crew are a tight-knit, fun bunch. Parisi said that the humor that the crew shares on the ground is taken with them in the air.

"You try to take some of the humor in there with you because some of the things you see are hard to believe," she said. "The worst ones are the kids."

After his hospital stay, Szczerba was transported from the state line to his home on the Gurnee Fire Engine.

Szczerba has endured months of painful therapy at Lake Forest Hospital which will pay off this week. He returns to work Thursday, June 24, after recently passing his physical endurance test.

TRIPS: Ten years of saving lives responding to calls within a 225-mile radius. The helicopter is capable of hauling two patients, three caregivers and the pilot and requires only a 100' feet by 100 feet area to land.

Once on the ground, the flight nurse and the paramedic have a fully functional EMS unit available to them including a ventilator and a defibrillator. Members of the crew liken it to an ambulance with wings.

The helicopter is leased from Corporate Jets Inc., out of Pittsburgh, Penn., and replaced the first Flight For Life helicopter, a single engine model that served the program for the first five years.

Flight For Life has made nearly 10,000 total flights in the 13 years that the program has been in existence. At NIMC the program has made almost 3,000 flights in 10 years.

More recently the program attained accreditation by the Commission on Accreditation of Air Medical Services (CAAMS). They are only the second air medical program in the state to be accredited by CAAMS.

Jews, Christians come together through music

What do Jews and Christians have in common? The Liberated Wailing Wall sings Jewish Christian Gospel Music, and in the process explains why at least some Jews are for Jesus. For more than two decades this globe-hopping group has harmonized together, using piano, flute, guitar, and dunbek (a Middle Eastern drum) to sing songs from the Hebrew Scriptures and New Testament.

The Antioch Evangelical Free Church would like to share this joyful exuberance with the broader communities. Because the Gospel is for everyone, and a commitment to Christ does not deny culture, heritage, and interests. The concert is free, but an offering for the ongoing travel of the Liberated Wailing Wall will be received.

This special family program of will be held Friday, June 27 at 7 p.m. The Antioch Evangelical Free Church is located off Tiffany Road, a half block north of Route 173, and one block west of Route 59. Call 395-4117 for further information.

Be sure to teach children to respect animals

Dear Dr. Singer, We live in an area in which there is a lot of wildlife and I have seen my children as well as other children become curious about the animals.

I have seen other kids in our neighborhood cause problems for animals like frogs.

My children do not bother these animals, but I would like to see if maybe there is a good way to present this wildlife to our children so that they learn about them and don't try to hurt them. M.T.

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer,
Psy.D.

Dear M.T.,

All kids are curious about things they have never seen at a close distance before. As a person who loves animals, I have a definite perspective on this that I think is imperative for all parents to teach their children about animals, whether wild or domestic. I have also seen kids hurt animals out of both curiosity going too far, and the lack of understanding of another's perspective. You see, it is my opinion that many parents feel that a child's attitude toward animals just develops on its own. I am here to tell you that it doesn't. We need to teach our kids respect and compassion for those weaker and smaller than us through example and discussion. We also need to teach them that sometimes even the smallest of creatures can have a doozie of a defense system, including fun things like rabies.

There are two important areas that are good to teach. These are: respect of animals and protection of self. All animals, wild and domestic are deserving of their own space and prevention of harm. When a child becomes too rough with a domestic animal such as a dog or a cat, it is a great time to explain to the child what that would feel like to the animal. Helping a child to take the animals' perspective helps to develop a sense of empathy and compassion.

I have seen children purposely set out to hurt animals. Believe me, these children have not been taught the opposite. If taught young enough, these kinds of behaviors can be avoided. Certainly, kids should be taught that if they are having a bad time or a problem, it is not appropriate to take it out on something smaller or weaker. Teaching our kids this, helps both the kids and the animals. I have also seen children get curious and go too far and then feel miserable afterwards. Teach them first and avoid this later.

From the time children are very young, I recommend that we teach them to be respectful of creatures we should not be near. Wildlife can be cute and cuddly looking, but it is wild. We should make sure to point out to our kids what the animal is and help them understand that it deserves our leaving it alone to do what it does naturally. Even if it is within a couple feet of us. We don't want to scare the daylights out of our kids about animals, however, teaching a healthy distance to prevent bites or other problems is important. This is also true of domestic animals. There are thousands of dog bites each and every year. You can never really predict what is going on in the mind of an animal you don't know. Our kids need to hear this more than once and watch to keep that distance.

I would actually make a project out of this for the young ones. Take a walk around your neighborhood with your children and have them identify the names of animals and whether they think they're wild or home animals. When they identify what they are, ask them to then tell you how to react to them. You will, of course, help them along the way to understand the distance, space, boundaries and rules of dealing with these animals. You'll also help them to understand that these are living things with families of their own and if they get hurt, they cannot see or be with their families anymore. Many times, this personalizing of the animals' situation is all it takes for a child's natural nurture tendencies to surface and understanding to become complete.

You have a wonderful opportunity to create some marvelous learning for your kids. Just a note: We also have a lot of wildlife by our home and this year we have been blessed and are the proud parents (adoptive of course) of a family of Mallard ducks. They have nested around our home and we have been extremely careful to not disturb them and really let them be completely on their own. This parallel living with these creatures has just warmed our hearts to the bottom.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Summer's here, and the living is easy this week, Aries. The sunshine and warm temperatures put you in a great mood that carries over into everything that you do, from your career to your family life. Your happiness is contagious, and those around you will be "infected." Capricorn and Pisces play important roles.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

You get a little hot under the collar at work this week as a project you've been working on runs into problems. If you remain calm and collected, you can come up with a solution. A loved one is there to offer suggestions and listen to you vent. This will make your relationship stronger.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

The workweek flies by, Gemini. You have a lot of work to do, but it doesn't overwhelm you. You actually enjoy it. Family, on the other hand, will try your patience. Everyone calls on you for advice and assistance. Don't get angry. You have to remember that these people always have been there for you. Leo plays a role.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

A superior at work trusts you with confidential information. This confidence means that the higher-ups trust and respect you. Don't let them down by spreading rumors. A person from your past returns for a visit and wants to rekindle an old flame. Think about what happened before. Do you want history to repeat itself?

Leo - July 23/August 23

Work is hectic this week, Leo, but you can handle it if you focus on the tasks at hand. However, loved ones are worried about you, because you don't seem like yourself. Instead of being outgoing, you're acting shy. Don't let their concern make you self-conscious. You just need a little time to think.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Your dependable nature won't fail you this week, which is a relief. You have a lot of appointments to keep, and a lot of people are counting on you. Don't get overwhelmed. A family member turns to you for advice. Make time for him or her, because he or she really needs you. Scorpio plays an important role.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

You have to make a crucial decision at work this week. Don't be rash; think about all of the pros and cons first. Ask for advice if you're not sure of what to do. That special someone is there for you. Don't let work's pressure keep you from developing your relationship.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

You must be determined this week, Scorpio, because you're faced with a lot of distractions.

Get your priorities in order, and set an agenda for yourself. It is the only way to get anything done. A close friend needs you to be there for him or her. Don't let him or her down.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't go off on tangents at work this week. A lot of people are depending on you to complete your work. Keep your shoulder to the wheel — and your mouth closed! Your input will be needed for a family get-together. Help as much as you can. Gemini and Cancer play important roles.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

That stubborn streak of yours won't serve you well this week. Let your understanding side shine through if you want to accomplish anything. A loved one asks you a probing question. You can't avoid it, so just tell the truth. A secret admirer reveals his or her identity. It may shock you.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

With so much going on at work, it is hard for you not to overanalyze the situation. However, it is in your best interest to stay out of it and just do your own job — even if people try to drag you into the middle of the problem. Loved ones need your support this week. Taurus plays a role.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

It's time to make your move at work. You see the perfect opportunity to show your talent, and you have to take it. Don't worry — it will get you noticed. A close friend introduces you to someone with a lot of influence in your career field. Don't be shy. It's always good to have connections.

HOME & GARDEN

June 26, 1997

Lakeland Newspapers/B15

Now is time to prepare for bug warfare

With the weather finally warming up and the flower and vegetable beds growing well and getting bigger by the day, guess what? They're back! What is that, you ask? Bugs!

One day you're out checking the garden for weeds etc. and your beans and cucumbers look like they've been shot full of holes. Your flower garden has some sick looking buds in there.

So, what to do? Knock them dead with chemicals or try safer and gentler methods. Personally, I do not use chemicals in my garden. I'm not so convinced of their overall usefulness. I would rather not harm the birds and bees. But that is your choice, both methods can work.

We do not have to rely on chemicals. There are many old fashioned remedies that worked for grandma, and they are still effective today. For aphids and mites try skimmed milk. Try a spray made with one part milk and nine parts water. This also works great against most diseases.

I also use a solution of hot pepper and garlic. Take these seasonings, crush and steep them then mix with water. Spray even before you see insect damage, it does the trick! This works especially well for chewing and sucking insects. Also try the old soap and water bath. Plain dish soap (Ivory) mixed with water is particularly useful against soft bodied pests such as aphids.

If you have a large population of slugs, or any slugs at all, try "beer baits." Put beer in shallow trays around your plants in the evening. I use old pie tins. I guarantee you'll have caught a bunch by the morning.

If you use chemicals please follow the instructions to the letter. It is most important as many of them can be very hazardous. If they are not working for you, try some of the alternative choices—they are cheaper as well.

Also don't feel as if you have to save every plant. If some must be discarded don't feel guilty. Throwing away a badly diseased plant may save others from the same fate.

If you have any alternative remedies that you prefer, I'd like to hear about them. Have fun watching your garden grow. Until next week, peace.

Repair storm damaged trees with special care

Intense rain and wind can do extensive damage to trees and shrubs. Localized thunderstorms or widespread storm fronts during the summer months often leave trees in need of some repair. It is important to use proper pruning to help restore these plants' beauty and health. "Proper pruning methods help the tree, but they are also important to protect the safety of the person doing the pruning," says John A. Church, Univ. of Illinois extension educator, Natural Resources, at the Rockford Extension Center.

For large trees or limbs, especially those near buildings, it may be a good choice to hire professionals to correct the damage. Remove damaged limbs as promptly as possible to help prevent insect and disease problems from developing. After a tree has been damaged, it may not be especially attractive for a few years, but proper pruning can help extend its life, and eventually, its beauty.

A major point to remember when doing any pruning is to make the cuts flush, back to the nearest desirable limb. Do not leave stubs of limbs of any size showing after the pruning. Such stubs are good "conduits" for decay and increased insect activity.

Also, do not "top" trees to remove damaged branches. Use judicious selection and proper pruning methods on only the limbs that need repair. "Topping," or simply trimming off the ends of the branches at the top or side of the tree, often results in a very unattractive tree with a flush of weak branches sprouting from the pruning cut, called a "witches broom." Such branches are usually weak and have narrow branching angles which can lead to further breakage.

Storm damage and the repair pruning can cause a severe "shock" to the tree. To help counteract this, fertilize and water the trees.

Also, for the first year or so after the damage, the tree will produce many unbalanced branches. Remove the weaker or undesirable limbs as they appear. Fertilizing and continued pruning will help maintain balance, improve the trees' health, and help restore its beauty.

Routine annual pruning should be done when most trees are dormant, but repair pruning needs to be done as soon as feasible. Maintaining proper watering will also be important as the tree continues to recover.

For more information, contact the Lake County Cooperative Extension Service office, 223-8627. Copies of the U of I publication, "Pruning and Care of Trees and Shrubs" can be obtained through the office, which details proper repair and routine pruning practices.

Flagstone pathway saves life of mighty oaks

Last week I was called onto a site to bid on a railroad tie wall that was to be 140 feet long and three feet high. This wall was to serve the function of a pathway, however, two large, beautiful white oaks were going to have three feet of soil piled under their dripline to create this wall. I was amazed that this idea was even considered. To change the grade so drastically under these magnificent trees would surely be their demise. I politely explained this to the customer and they were surprised that this idea was given to them. I assured these people that if they went ahead with this work the oaks would die from the grade change. Grade changes must be limited to two inches or less under the dripline of trees and heavy compaction of soil is also a major no-no!

Possibly the reason a tie wall was suggested would be the comfort of a level pathway. Whatever the reason, I submitted a no bid, suggested they call the Morton Arboretum or Botanic Gardens to verify my analysis, and suggested a flagstone walkway built into the slope without changing the grade under the oaks. They liked my ideas and requested a design which we later implemented. We used a brownish-tan flagstone stepper to match the color of the brick of the home as well as the wood deck. Each piece was irregular in shape and 36- to 42-inches wide. (Note: using small flagstone pieces makes for a very uncomfortable walk down a pathway). These individual pieces were then set in four inches of compacted gravel. A one-inch layer of sand was then installed onto the compacted gravel before we set each piece down. This helps to level each stone which is then tamped down using a rubber hammer. Each flagstone stepper was set only six to eight inches apart allowing for a easy paced walk down the pathway.

After completing the pathway we studied the light and found the path area to be very shady due to the overhead canopy of the mighty oaks. We then carefully cultivated the soil under the trees and added hardwood mulch along with Lamium, Variegated

Solomon's Seal, Foamflower, Coral Bells and several varieties of the newer Hostas. We inter-twined these plants along the pathway to give one a feeling of walking into the garden as they walked down the pathway.

The flagstone pathway was comfortable to walk on and looked and felt wonderful as you walked from stepper to stepper. We left the grade as it had existed before we began the work and I'm sure the mighty oaks were as pleased as our customers.

Battle with mosquito time approaches Lake County

As summer begins, so does the annual battle with mosquitoes. Heavy rains in some parts of northern Illinois may have also helped to add to the potential for high populations of mosquitoes in the next few weeks. According to entomologists at the Univ. of Illinois, there are several points to remember about controlling and living with this year's mosquito population, reports Jim Betustak, CES Unit Leader, Lake County Cooperative Extensive Service.

There are 3,000 different kinds of mosquitoes worldwide. About 50 known species are in Midwestern states. However, only a few are nuisance biters or of a concern as carriers of diseases such as encephalitis in humans or parasites such as heartworms in dogs.

The entire life cycle of a mosquito can be completed in about seven to 10 days. Most mosquitoes remain within one mile of where they breed. Both males and females feed primarily on nectar and plant juices. Only the female bites humans and draws blood as a protein source for her eggs. Mosquitoes lay eggs in standing water or areas which will be flooded. Young mosquitoes live as larvae in water, however, they are rarely found in deep water such as lakes or in flowing streams or rivers. Shallow or wetland areas near these may be egg sites, though.

There are three general classifications of mosquitoes, depending on where the larvae live, including floodwater or temporary pool areas, treeholed and artificial containers, and standing water. Knowing which type of habitat a mosquito species prefers and which one may be present can help determine what, if any, disease potential exists and can help in effective control. Encephalitis is carried by mosquitoes primarily with breeding sites in treeholes and standing water sites. Those from floodwater areas are the most important nuisance pest mosquito in Illinois.

Homeowners should eliminate any unnecessary water holding areas and containers from around the home and yard to help reduce egg-laying sites. Sites such as wading pools, birdbaths, or pet watering dishes should be freshened with new water often. Eliminating tall grass and weeds can help reduce populations near the home, since it is a favorite hiding place during the day. Removing old stumps and decaying trees in wooded lots can reduce egg sites for the treehole species.

For individuals, remember that dark colored clothing tends to attract mosquitoes.

They are often hungriest and most active at dusk and dawn, so less outside activity at that time can reduce biting. Keep pets inside during those high feeding times and out of tall grassy areas, since they can also be bitten. Apply insect repellents to exposed skin when going outside and wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants.

Devices that are advertised as physical attractants or repellents of mosquitoes are limited in effectiveness. The ultraviolet electrocuting lights are not effective on mosquito activity.

The more that individual homeowners do to eliminate mosquitoes, the easier it is for community abatement programs to work.

Informational fact sheets on home and community mosquito control are available from the Extension Office, call 223-8627.

First Lady Brenda Edgar launches Illinois Women's Health Campaign

First Lady Brenda Edgar has launched "Friend to Friend," the Illinois Women's Health Campaign, a comprehensive public awareness initiative focusing on the special health needs of women age 40 and older.

Mrs. Edgar also announced the creation of an Office of Women's Health within the Illinois Dept. of Public Health, which will direct this initiative.

"Women at mid-life face many changes all at once, some physical, some psychological, all frustrating," Mrs. Edgar said. "A woman is not only confused, but also at risk for major health problems. The missions of Friend to Friend is to inform women and encourage them to become their own best health care advocates."

As part of the National Governors' Assn. Spouses Program, spouses of governors across the country have launched a nationwide campaign to raise public awareness on the common but complex issues surrounding women's health.

Nationally, the campaign focuses on five major women's health concerns: breast cancer, heart disease, menopause, mental health and osteoporosis. Illinois also included domestic violence in its educational and promotional materials.

As part of the national effort, Mrs. Edgar formed the Illinois Women's Health Campaign which led to Gov. Jim Edgar's creation of a new Office of Women's Health. This office will coordinate Friend to Friend activities and chair the interagency women's health council with the governor's office.

Sharon Green, former executive director of the Y-ME National Breast Cancer Organization, was named the first Deputy Director of Women's Health by Gov. Edgar.

"Sharon brings a background of advocacy, management and leadership in the women's health field to this job," the governor said. "We are fortunate that she has joined state government to help bring focus to the women's health agenda in Illinois."

Friend to Friend features a toll-free helpline, 1-888-522-1282, that will provide callers with answers to health concerns or refer them to a community-local resource.

It is staffed by trained information specialists, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

"In the busy lifestyle of the '90s, women may not have the time to identify health resources or implement the information they know," Mrs. Edgar said. "It is my desire for Friend to Friend to provide women access to information to make this transition in life as painless as possible."

The Illinois Women's Health Campaign is a public-private partnership with Blue Cross Blue Shield of Illinois, Pfizer Inc., State Farm Insurance, the Illinois State Florists Assn. and more than 30 advocacy and health organizations.

This strong corporate support will fund all public awareness materials, allowing state resources to be dedicated to providing services to women.

"Pfizer is proud to collaborate with the Illinois Women's Health Campaign as together we confront health care issues facing women today," said Ruth Merkatz, PhD, director-team leader for women's health at Pfizer.

"Blue Cross Blue Shield of Illinois salutes Mrs. Edgar for her leadership in the women's health campaign and we look forward to working with her to advance this important issue," said Raymond F. McCaskey, president and CEO of Blue Cross Blue Shield of Illinois.

"Healthy women make healthy families," said Linda Fewkes, State Farm Illinois public affairs manager. "State Farm is proud to be able to support helping women live healthier and longer lives."

A unique public-private partnership with the Illinois State Florists Assn. was also unveiled. Florists across the state will offer the "Friend to Friend bouquet," an arrangement of cut flowers in a large coffee mug designed exclusively for this initiative.

"The Friend to Friend bouquet allows others to send vital health information to women with a positive touch," Mrs. Edgar said.

And it provides an opportunity for Illinois florists to contribute to the well being of their clients and community.

"The Illinois State Florists Assn. is happy to provide our customers with the opportunity to send the gift of health to the important women in their lives," said Eldon Haab, president of the Illinois State Florists Assn.

Non-surgical treatment for prostate cancer now available

An outpatient, non-surgical option for treating early-stage prostate cancer was introduced at Midwestern Regional Medical Center, 2520 Elisha Ave., Zion.

Called radiation seed implantation, the treatment involves the implantation of radioactive seeds directly into the prostate gland, where the cancer tumor receives radiation directly, sparing many men from side effects—such as a long recovery period, incontinence, and impotence—often associated with surgical treatment for prostate cancer.

Prostate cancer patients treated with radiation seed implants were just as likely to be disease free five years after treatment as men who had undergone surgery to remove the cancer, according to a study conducted at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York, and published in the "Journal of Clinical Oncology."

The procedure is performed by a board-certified urologist on staff at Midwestern, and a board-certified radiation therapist affiliated with Cancer Treatment Centers of America.

The cancer program at Midwestern is affiliated with Cancer Treatment Centers of America. In addition to advanced medical treatments like radiation seed implantation, people who have cancer treated at Midwestern have access to consultations with nutritionists to discuss diet planning and vitamin and mineral supplementation, support groups, prayer groups, and many other programs and services designed to help improve the effectiveness of cancer treatment.

In 1996, Midwestern received accreditation with commendation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations for a survey score of 99, ranking Midwestern among the top 4 percent of hospitals nationwide.

Called the Stroke Exercise Program, it incorporates a variety of methods to build endurance and re-train muscles.

An advantage of being located in the Lake County Family YMCA building is that stroke clients have access to the pool, nautilus equipment and the walking track.

Through the use of these facilities, clients follow exercise regimens designed to meet their individual needs. Not only do they strengthen muscles, but clients also regain self-confidence by attaining personal exercise goals.

The Stroke Exercise Program meets Tuesday and Thursday at the Victory Adult Day Center, located in the Lake County Family YMCA, 2000 Western Ave., Waukegan. For more information call, 360-9860.

Country Life to send Medicare refunds

In a first for the state of Illinois, Country Life Insurance Co. is mailing Plan F Medicare Supplement policyholders premium refunds totaling about $123,000. The refunds are the result of better than anticipated claims experience throughout 1996.

"We are pleased to be able to offer this refund, and I think our policyholders will be pleasantly surprised when they get their refund checks in the mail," says Don Engelkes, vice president and general manager of Country Life.

As an added bonus for policyholders, our 1997 premium rate for this Medicare Supplement coverage is among the lowest in the state."

About 3,075 Illinois Medicare Supplement policyholders will receive refund checks totaling $40.04 per policy.

The checks will be mailed to all Plan F Medicare Supplement policyholders who had policies with Country Life on Dec. 31, 1996. The checks include interest accrued from Jan. 1 to June 16.

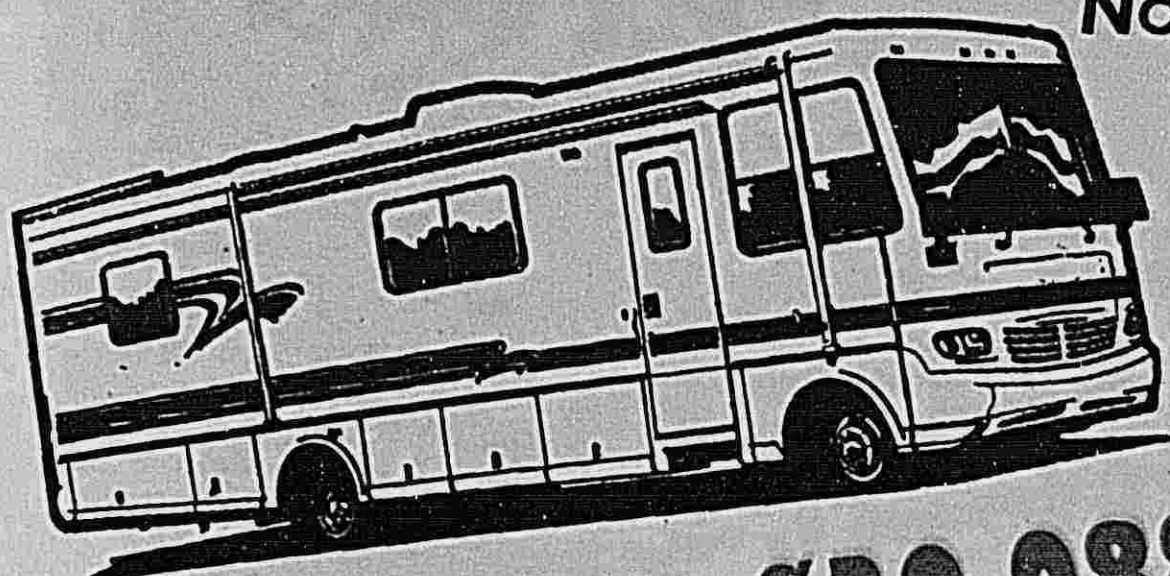

Insurance companies are required by law to refund policyholders when the amount of total premium collected versus the amount spent to pay claims is above what is allowed by the Illinois Medicare Supplement Minimum Standards. Since those standards became effective in 1992, Country Life is the first Medicare Supplement carrier in Illinois to issue premium refunds to policyholders.

Rose Sajuan's grandkids helped her overcome cancer.

When Rose Sajuan of Waukegan, Ill., found out she had breast cancer in 1996, she knew right away she was going to fight and win, because she had to be here for her grandchildren.

"My family is the most important part of my life, and not being here for them just wasn't in my plans," Rose says.

Rose's family doctor referred her to the Cancer Treatment Centers of America program at Midwestern Regional Medical Center.

"I was very impressed with how open the doctors were. I wanted to be involved in choosing the right treatment for me, and they welcomed that. I especially appreciated having support groups and prayer meetings. That helped me keep a positive attitude, and kept me focused on why I wanted to get well — so I could be here for my family."

The cancer program at Midwestern combines advanced medical treatment with diet planning, vitamin and mineral supplementation, support groups, prayer, and lots of tender loving care.

Find out how we make a difference. Please call Cancer Treatment Centers of America today at 800/940-2822 for more information or to schedule an appointment for a consultation.

Quayle's hopeful road to White House makes early stop

Salvi host former VP in early fundraiser

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

The road to the White House has likely always begun with the smallest of gatherings. For former Vice President Dan Quayle, who has been out from under the hot lights of the press and the nightly remarks of stand-up comics for more than four years, the road to election 2000 made a pit stop in rural Lake County.

Quayle, was the guest of attorney Al Salvi and his wife, Kathy, for an impromptu fundraiser for his PAC, Campaign America, at the Salvi home near Wauconda, Saturday.

Campaign America is a multi-faceted political action committee which donates money to Republican candidates across the nation whom the PAC feels are most noteworthy of additional financial support.

Quayle is the leader of the Campaign America, which was a contributor to the Salvi for Senate campaign in 1996.

"I want to work hard during the next year to meet people across the country and to get the message out about what we believe in as Republicans today," Quayle said. "I want to be in position by early 1998 to make a decision about running for the presidency in the year 2000."

Salvi says he has no doubts Quayle will seek the party's nomination and be a successful candidate for president.

"I think he is the right man for the job, because he exemplifies what America needs now," Salvi said. "I think the platform for the year 2000 will center on the quality of life of Americans and the importance of family and morality. Dan Quayle has always believed in those causes and worked to support them."

Quayle said he is frustrated with Washington today. "Just leave Bill Clinton aside for a moment, I'm frustrated with the Republicans in Congress," Quayle said. "They got elected on the Contract with America. They have an agenda. Why are we taking polls and setting up focus groups; it's important to have a sampling, but why it is being tagged with the disaster relief bill is beyond me. The voters

Skidmore hopes to continue family tradition

Robert Skidmore Jr. announces candidacy for Lake County Treasurer

By KEVIN HANRAHAN
Regional Editor

When it comes to the Lake County Treasurer's Office, family ties run strong in the Skidmore family.

The name "Robert Skidmore" may sound familiar to those who recall the former treasurer from 1970 to 1973.

That was Robert Skidmore Sr. Now, Robert Skidmore Jr. wants to fill the seat his father once held.

And before his father, Skidmore's uncle, Hugo Schneider, was treasurer from 1950-54 and from 1958-62.

Not to mention, Skidmore's mother, Edna, worked at one time a pencil's throw away in the Recorder of Deeds Office.

"Politics runs in my family," Skidmore noted. "Once it's in your blood, you can't escape it."

Surrounded by family and friends, Skidmore officially made the first Republican pitch to run as Lake County Treasurer in 1998.

Skidmore's announcement Friday, June 20, came on the heels of Jack "Red" Anderson's shocker that he is stepping down as Lake County Treasurer after nearly 20 years at the post.

Anderson, too, was close to the Skidmore family as "Red" worked under both Skidmore Sr. and Schneider in the treasurer's office before being elected the top officer in 1978.

In fact, Skidmore recalled when he was a boy, Anderson would visit his father's home for dinner to talk politics. Skidmore would listen in on those discussions by sitting close to an upstairs radiator.

"It was amazing what I heard from that radiator," Skidmore quipped.

But winning the treasurer's seat may take more than some election tips heard from a radiator as Lake County's Republican bigwigs showed up in force last Friday to rally around Skidmore as their candidate.

"He can already step in and continue to run the office in the same excellent manner as Red did," said John Schulien, Lake County Republican Party

Youth injured on Six Flags ride

Gurnee—A 14-year-old Waukegan youth suffered an injury to an arm which was caught and dragged while he was riding a Six Flags Great America ride.

The youth was airlifted to Children's Memorial Hospital in Milwaukee for treatment following the incident at 6:07 p.m. June 23.

The theme park's paramedics worked with Gurnee Firemen to extricate the youth from the "Viper" ride using a portapower device.

"We estimate his hand was dragged 30 feet. We don't know why his hand was out of the ride, but it got caught between the platform and the car back. It is amazing that he has a hand," Gurnee Fire Chief Tim McGrath said.

No immediate amputation was needed, McGrath said. A hospital spokesperson said family requested no condition information be released.

The Viper is two-years old without any other incidents, according to a park spokesperson.

There were two other youths with the injured boy.

School funding debated

Round Lake—Round Lake Unit School board members expressed their disappointment with the state legislature's failure to adopt education funding reform to State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Barrington).

Baubien came to the school board meeting to explain the district would be receiving $500,000 in life safety grants from the state. He defended the Republican stance on increasing education funding through the budget surplus. He noted the Republicans also wanted stronger accountability from teachers as part of any reform package.

Board Member Linda Molitor warned a financially strapped district, such as Round Lake will go bankrupt if nothing is done to address state education funding.

Baubien was surprised when he researched the issue, that Round Lake Schools aren't picking up a proportionate share from increased funds given to schools. He said he would work to rectify the disparity in funds.

Burger King not coming

Lake Villa—Burger King officials have informed the village board in a letter they are no longer interested in locating at the Lake Villa Plaza.

Plaza owner Ed Kidera said a year process was wasted as the village will not be getting another fast food restaurant at his Plaza on Route 83 and Grand Avenue. He had hoped to expand the Plaza with Burger King being the impetus to bring other small businesses in the fold.

Kidera estimated at least $80,000 in revenue and 100 new jobs could be created with the plaza expansion.

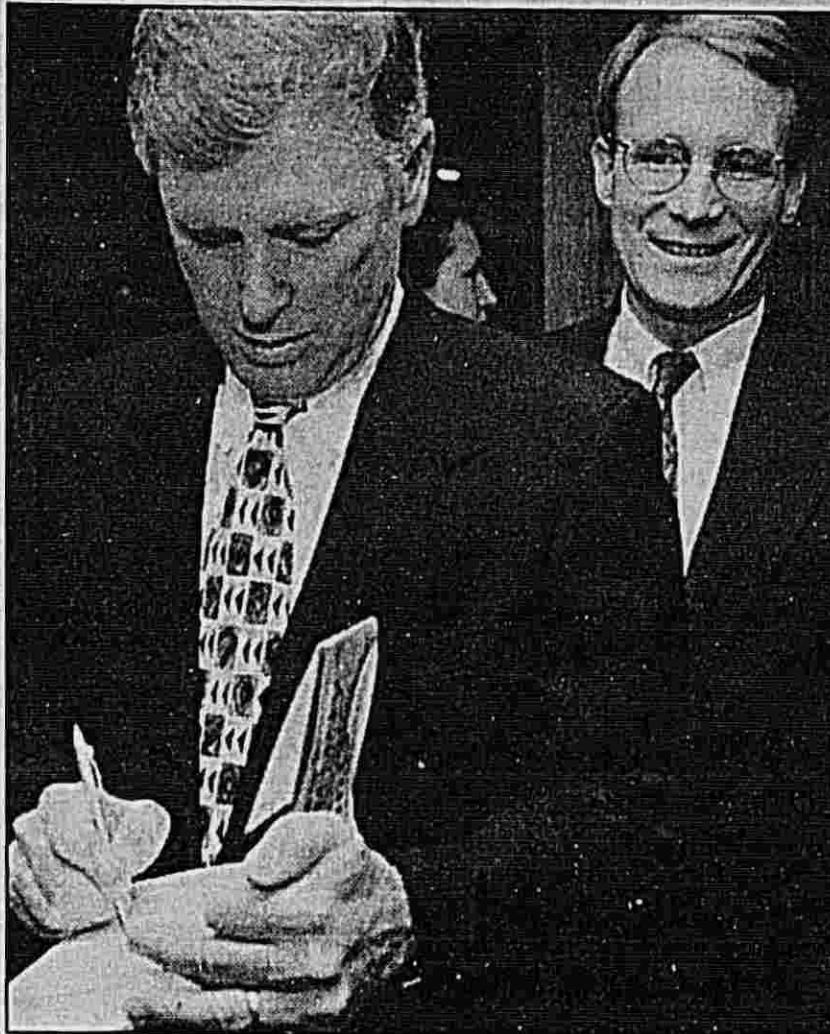

Village officials and Burger King, differed on how much storm water management should be required on the site.

Mickey Finn's to expand operation

Libertyville—Five years ago, Libertyville resident Bill Sugars was at the point in his life where he felt he was ready for something different. At that time he convinced then owner of Mickey Finn's Pat Elmquest, to allow him to add a brewing operation to the existing restaurant.

The rest, as they say, is history.

Sugars, along with new partner Joe Dicello, is looking to do something different again and has cleared the way to construct a new brewing facility in northwest Libertyville. The partnership has been dubbed Brauhaus Properties L.L.C., while the brewing facility will be called the Libertyville Brewing Company.

Village applies for park grant

Lake Zurich—The village is applying for a 50-50 state Open Space and Land Acquisition and Development grant to help it develop Breezewald Park, a 5.5 acre parcel on North Old Rand Road at Oak Road, on the northeast side of Lake Zurich.

Officials are seeking $185,000 to pay for a number of improvements that would start next year, including playground equipment, a restroom and changing building, picnic shelter, lighting, benches, picnic tables, a handicapped accessible fishing pier and landscaping.

The deadline to apply for the grant is July 1, and officials will hear the results in the fall.

Suburban Lodge pitches proposal

Vernon Hills—The Vernon Hills Committee of the Whole gave the go ahead to a conceptual plan for an extended stay hotel.

The hotel, proposed by Suburban Lodges of America Inc., would be a three-story, 136 unit facility that would be designed and landscaped to be "as residential as possible."

WaucondaFest this weekend

Wauconda—Mark your calendars for the 18th annual WaucondaFest, a summer festival coming to Homer T. Cook Park, 600 N. Main St., this week.

The festival kicks off summer in its usual way of offering carnival rides for kids, music for adults, and an assortment of entertainment for everyone, beginning Thursday, July 26, at 5 p.m., and ultimately closing Sunday, July 29 at 8 p.m., with extended hours on the weekend.

A $2 one-time admission fee is required, with all children under 5 admitted free. "People are looking for family entertainment, which we do provide," Burton said.

Waterway not for Francis

Fox Lake—Only shortly after he agreed to conduct a free assessment of the agency's management needs, news comes June 20 that former Grant Township Trustee Michael Francis will not be working with the Fox Waterway Agency on a long-term basis.

"When I'm done (with the assessment), I may find that I don't even want the job (of executive director)," Francis had said following the June 12 meeting at which the agency board accepted his offer. According to Agency Chairman Dr. William Dam, that has turned out to be the case.

"I think we may have lost a real asset there," Dam said.

Francis could not be reached for comment.

Charter School downed

Fremont Twp.—The Board of Education at Fremont School Dist. 79 voted unanimously to deny the opportunity to create a Prairie Commons Charter School at their June 23 public hearing on the proposal.

"I admire good work; and, I admire passion a great deal, but I've got a couple of reservations about practicality," Andy Rieder, board president, said in remarks just before the vote.

Later, after the district board's vote, co-presentation leader for the founders group, Miriam Frank said, "If this proposal can't get passed by this district, legislative relief is the only solution."

After a previous rejection of the proposal by Woodland School District 50, the parent-based founders group approached the Fremont District board on June 12. The revised proposal for District 79 consideration focused on changes to the proposal as a result of losing Woodland District support. The charter school was to have offered open enrollment to all students of District 79.

ESCAPEE: Shot in Route 120 chase in a parking lot in Round Lake later the same morning. At 5 p.m., the second escapee, William R. Macias, 20, of Round Lake Beach, serving a sentence for residential burglary, surrendered at a resort motel on Route 134 north of Round Lake.

Upon initially receiving information of the two men's escape, Fox Lake Police had visited Macias' mother, a resident of Fox Lake. According to police, she said that she had neither seen nor heard from her son since his escape. This claim was contrary to information later received from another source. Janice L. Macias, 47, of 17 S. York in Fox Lake, was arrested on a charge of aiding a fugitive.

Authorities had received word that Bakker, still at large, had visited his father near McHenry on the evening of June 22. On June 23, a 1988 Lincoln Continental was reported stolen from a Volo car dealership. A .45-caliber replica pistol was also reported missing.

At approximately 10 a.m. that day, members of the Department of Corrections Special Emergency Response Team reported spotting the vehicle, with Bakker at the wheel, in the parking lot of Kmart.

A chase ensued on Route 120, heading east from McHenry. That chase concluded near Route 12 when, authorities reported, the car Bakker was driving went into the ditch.

Bakker continued to flee on foot with the replica weapon, only to later turn to confront his pursuers and be shot by Corrections Captain Kenneth Briley.

"Bakker was taken to Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry and later flown to Lutheran General in Park Ridge and has undergone surgery," said Department of Corrections spokesman Nic Howell. At latest report, Bakker was listed in serious condition.

Water agency's misfires damaging

Like the spring floods that churn through the Chain O'Lakes, officials of the non-tax supported Fox Waterway Management Agency hope a period of disorder is behind them. If the turbulence doesn't subside, agency directors will be the latest nominees for the Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight.

In short order, a majority of directors clumsily ousted their highly regarded executive director, cleaved a division in their own ranks, saw their choice for hands-on dredging supervision embarrass the agency by getting involved in an alcohol-related boating accident and aroused the anger of the director of the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources.

And that's only part of the story.

Fortunately, chairman William Dam and the directors who serve without pay are getting a chance to recoup. In the face of a possible shutdown, the agency accepted the offer from DNR Dir. Donald R. Vonnahme for the services of a part-time professional engineer and took on the services of Michael Francis, a retired AT&T executive, to conduct a management survey without pay.

With the 1997 boating season about to hit stride, the squabbling directors might yet shape themselves up and get down to assigned duties, providing for boating safety on the Chain and Upper Fox, improving water quality and conducting dredging operations that enhance boating and contribute to flood control.

All through the recent tribulations, members of the agency's Citizens Advisory Committee have been strangely silent. The committee is made up of well qualified residents of the waterway who are committed to the agency mission. Their voices should be heard.

Even though the directors have been firing shots in all directions of late, looking more than a little silly at times, we think the decade-old agency still is the best thing going for preservation of a priceless natural resource.

Directors provide a thankless service. They have some new advisors in place. The elected officials also would do well to listen to what citizen advisors have to say.

Crime battle showing results

Law enforcement officers in our community can take pride in their contributions to a significant drop in serious crime in Lake County for the first three months of the year.

Lake led the metro area with a drop of more than 12 percent. DuPage was down about a half percent. Cook County was down 2.6 percent. McHenry and Will counties showed increases for the first quarter. Over the state as a whole, serious crime was down 4.2 percent for the same period a year ago.

Illinois followed national trends, stated State Police Director Terrance Gainer. He attributed the record of improvement to hiring more police, emphasis on community policing, longer prison terms, stiffer gun and drug laws, anti-gang action and growth of neighborhood watch programs. State statistics are obtained from local authorities.

Lake's record was tarnished somewhat by leading the collar counties in murder with five.

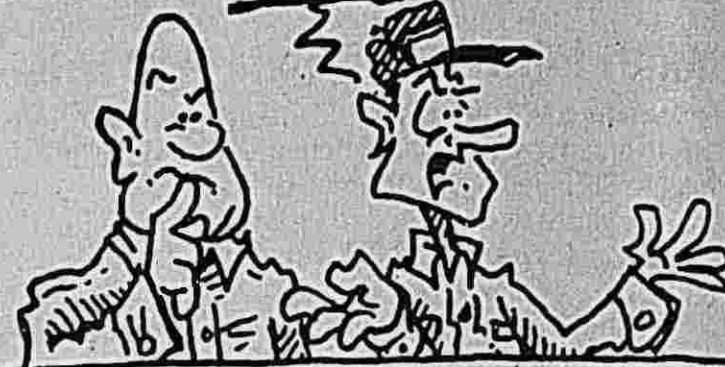

Still, Lake County's achievement is a testament to extra effort. Where gang activity exists, police in Waukegan, Mundelein and Round Lake Beach, for example, have stepped up. Innovations like bicycle patrols in Lake Zurich, Round Lake Park and Hainesville are producing results. Creation of special tactical units and crime busting task forces, supported by a number of villages with money and personnel, is paying off.

Taxpayers, who are footing the bill, also are entitled to share in the reflective glory. By the same token, when the crime news isn't so good, we all have to roll up our sleeves to make our communities safer.

VIEWPOINT

Good, bad Fourth's; mostly good ones

Too many July 4ths of the past have been more a celebration of the right to do goofy things than an observance of American independence.

Dumb stunts committed in the guise of celebrating Independence Day were part of my youth. I grew up in the era when there was free access to fireworks. Throwing Lady Fingers (miniature firecrackers) at each other or having cap gun wars were among the milder forms of July Fourth "fun" of my youth.

That was nothing compared to the year the boys in the neighborhood acquired a supply of cherry bombs and discovered they were powerful enough to rocket a heavy paint pail to tree top heights, again and again.

My all-time recollection of reckless July Fourth behavior was being among a group of 8 and 10-year-olds who helped a high school boy dispatch a dinner-plate sized snapping turtle to that big pond in the sky by inserting a three-inch salute in his choppers. That old snapper sure held on tight. I was always somewhat comforted by the fact that the older guy torched the wick. What a stupid stunt!

As I got older, luckily I got wiser, at least no more fireworks, except to view up close the display one time in Parks Woods off Rte. 22, the year the mosquitoes were as big as robins. Other memorable Fourth's included being on the Junior American Legion baseball team that played in Zion in the season's "big" game, big because of the holiday. Zion didn't play baseball on Sundays in those days.

I can't remember the name of my date, but one July Fourth was memorable because a guy with a recently acquired driver's license motored to Lake Geneva for an evening of big band dancing at the popular lakefront Riviera. Probably the height of nerdiness in today's entertainment context.

Tooting the alto sax in the Libertyville Municipal Band meant being part of a stirring holiday rendition of Sousa's famed march, "Stars and Stripes Forever." Our piccolo player certainly was no slouch with that famous solo part. What July Fourth was meant to be came about in 1976, my all-time Independence Day memory, when I piloted a brand new boat in a decorated boat parade. Talk about busting your buttons.

Good thing individual fireworks have been deemphasized for July Fourth. I'll never forget the look of determination in the eyes of that old turtle, ready to snap at anything thrust in front of his face. He never knew what hit him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Public must make demands

On July 1 all Economic Disclosure Statements for the April 1 election are due. The Curb-Over-Development Team spent $45,372.51 during the Libertyville Township campaign, an amount nearly identical to what Swank and his supporters spent to win the same office in 1989.

We had a small army of volunteers along with a tireless working slate to whom I extend my personal thanks. The common thread our team shared was the over-development crisis facing all of Lake County. The public reflected the same concern in the voting booth. Only the public can put a screeching halt to over-development. Using the same tool—the voting booth. There were many people past and present who played a role in our win—some unknowingly.

My late parents were two of the most important. It was their monumental struggle to raise and educate nine kids and hold onto their farm during the great depression of the 1930s.

It was the sale of that farm that made our election possible. Looking back on it, if the Forest Preserve would have accepted my offer to preserve the farm at nearly half the price it later sold for, the election may have turned out very differently. Other unsuspecting benefactors who played a significant role in obtaining the $70,000 per acre price of the land was the taxpaying public in Warren Township and Woodland Elementary School District.

The builder would never have paid that price unless they were certain they could spin off the school cost of their development onto the public. Who is at fault? There is enough blame to go around. The cities and villages whose goal it is to annex all the land possible in order to collect the lucrative building fees, while unloading all the school cost onto whichever unfortunate school district their development falls into. Plus the well meaning but timid school boards who are simply overwhelmed when dealing with developers.

I suspect my folks would feel we

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Salvi hosts presidential hopeful in exclusive party

The home of Al and Kathy Salvi was the place to be Saturday night, if you wanted a glimpse into the future of Republican politics across the nation.

The event was a cocktail party fund-raiser which featured former vice president and likely Republican candidate for president in the year 2000, Dan Quayle.

Quayle spoke from the deck of the Salvi home to a gathering of about 100, comprised mostly of close friends and family members. Among the political invitees were the precinct committeemen from the 8th Congressional District.

Absent were some of the most well-known Republican politicians in Lake County, Salvi says the guest list was very limited and he chose to invite local politicians from his area and those who supported him strongly in his Senate campaign.

"It wasn't a snub, it was the space. We had to have a very limited guest list," Salvi said.

Among the local-faces were: Grant Township residents: Michael Francis, Randy Reid and Kim Eudy; County Board Representative Bonnie Thomson Carter (Dist. 5-Ingleside); Wauconda Trustee Liza Johnson and Richard Rinalo, the Lake Forest businessman who challenged Congressman John Porter in the '96 primary.

Lessons learned

Ironically, much of the talk around the lawn at the cocktail party centered on lessons learned from campaign losses.

Richard Rinalo says while he is definitely interested in pursuing politics in the future, he probably started with a race that was too big.

"I learned a lot, a met a lot of wonderful people and earned a lot of support," Rinalo said. The hardest part to learn according to Rinalo? Speaking in soundbites. Coming from an academic background, I guess I was more apt to debate a point. Congressman Porter can sum up his thoughts in a few sentences; people respond to that."

Liberal mix

Prior to attending the cocktail reception at the Salvi home, Quayle participated in a charity golf outing event. "I was in the category of entertain-

Carter: 'on the Salvi guest list'

Rinalo: 'Ready to seek another challenge'

ers," Quayle quipped. "I'm not sure how that is." He was paired with no other than former Today show host, Bryant Gumbel. "Now there's a conservative," Quayle joked.

He said their conversation centered on Gumbel's new role as news magazine host for CBS-TV. "He said his first program will be about Murphy Brown," Quayle said. "I guess I'll miss that one." The news magazine is scheduled to air in the time slot following the program.

Beth Who?

Loyal Republicans in Lake County scratched their heads when invited to attend a fundraiser last week for State Rep. Beth Coulson, a new name to most of them. The shindig was at Hackney's on Lake in Glenview. Turns out Coulson represents mostly a district in Cook County with 10 precincts in Highland Park.

Coulson is a blue ribbon name in Lake County politics. Beth is related by marriage to the late and great GOP State Sen. Robert "Bob" Coulson, who served as a state representative and mayor of Waukegan before elected to the Senate.

Those 10 precincts, by the way, "belong" to former State Sen. Grace Mary Stern, legendary Democratic leader who continues to battle cancer valiantly in her retired years.

Happy at work

Arlene Demb of Highland Park was delighted to accept the job of crafting a Democratic county slate for 1998. She'll be seeking to fill slots for sheriff, county clerk, county treasurer and regional school superintendent.

This used to be a thankless job, but no more after Democratic gains of 1996. Demb is energized from a successful coffee talk session she hosted in her home recently for U.S. Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun.

Forgetful FUD

The newly organized Fund for Unified Development (FUD) that promotes local growth and development listed job creation for Lake County residents as one of its goals. A check at the Pritzker job site on Nippersink Rd. west of Round Lake revealed vehicle licenses from places like Mattison, Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, and McHenry. There was one from Waukegan. Land preparation for the 1,800 home project has been handled by an out-of-county concern.

The family nun and new grandson

Pfarr-fetched thoughts on life in the slow lane: Well, not exactly the slow lane for my niece the nun, Sister Barbara of the School Sisters of Notre Dame.

"Barbie," as she is known in our family, is an all-around saintly person except that recently she drove her car a tad too rapidly through a small town. A policeman presented her with a ticket for speeding. Back at the convent, the other sisters now have a nickname for her: "The Flying Nun."

CAMERA MANIA

How times have changed. The lives of many of today's youngsters are being chronicled event-by-event in stacks of photographs and videotapes.

I know of only five photos snapped of me as a child. Near my desk, my wife has hung my picture as a 2-year-old holding a big toy block with letters on it. (Already playing with the alphabet?)

On my face is the same puzzled-about-life look that I still see today when I peer into a mirror.

Somewhere in an album is a picture of my brother Earl and me, as little boys, wearing cowboy hats and chaps and sitting on a pony (in front of our home in Kenosha).

On our mantel is a similar photo of my wife Jan's brothers, Norbie and Ronnie, as young boys in Green Bay. Roving photographers would bring their ponies and cowboy gear into neighborhoods everywhere and sell such photos to parents. A rare treat at the time.

Sadly, we have only one picture of Jan as a child. She's about 4 years old and posing on a staircase for a studio photographer. (A doll, even then.)

I wonder, with our childhoods long gone, would we want to have had them recorded in stark, indelible detail on videotape, a virtual film festival of our life?

Or would we rather have, as we do now, just the memories?

ZACH ATTACK

If this column was a wallet, I'd probably whip out pictures of our new, and so far, only grandchild.

Zachary is 15-week-old already and thriving. I wrote about his arrival in March and predicted he was a lucky little guy to be born into a family such as ours. What a better world this would be if every kid had a gang like us waiting to cherish and shepherd him.

How different to be a child in today's world compared to way back when. I don't think I ventured outside my hometown until I was a teen-ager. Zachary, along with his parents, Julie and Tony, already has traveled by air to Seattle, and then by ferry to the island of Friday Harbor, Wash., for a family wedding and to be relished by relatives.

He has traveled by car to Iowa for another family wedding and to Green Bay to be cradled in the arms of his 85-year-old great-grandmother, Theresa, and to meet his Uncle Ronnie and cousins.

Zach really gets around. And, of course, he's an adorable, happy little guy. How neat to be a part of this beautiful, brand-new life.

Flag stand promised

We should all be very proud of Congressman John Porter.

By refusing to join the demagogues in Congress who argue that the mere threat that someone might burn an American Flag justifies limiting our freedom of speech as guaranteed by the Constitution, Porter has shown himself once again to be a man of great intelligence and courage. I wish there were a whole lot more like him in Congress.

Nobody wants to see the symbol of our country burned. But in all honesty, when was the last time you saw that happen? If you're like me, you've never seen it. Not in person. It's not like people all around us make a habit of burning the flag every day.

My father, who passed away last fall, was a retired U.S. Army officer and a veteran of World War II and Korea. I know how much he sacrificed to make sure that the American flag would always fly over this land. I remember how he despised those who burned it in protest during the Vietnam war. I shared those feelings then, and I still do.

And yet, as I now understand, whittling away the freedoms guaranteed by our Constitution is a far greater threat to this nation. If the proposed flag-burning amendment becomes law, we will have lost far more than a few symbolic pieces of cloth. Flags are the product of factories; new ones are produced every day. But a top-notch, world-class Constitution like ours, which has stood the test of time for over two centuries, doesn't come along very often. There still isn't any other quite as good in the world.

Besides, there's one way to make sure that people do start burning the flag more often: simply amend the Constitution to prohibit such freedom of speech. Then we may all start seeing flag burnings on a regular basis.

Light rail the answer

Chicago is long overdue for a good light rail system—sadly we had one, the Chicago North Shore. The Aurora and Elgin and the Southshore lines were all bases for light rail train systems under modern technology but our dimwit politicians let them close up 35 years ago.

In 1961, when I was a candidate for state representative from Lake County, I was quoted by the media as saying the "North Shore Railroad must be saved at all costs." I hate to say it, but, "I told you so." The time has come. Light rail is the only answer to long range commuter problems in the Chicago area.

Light rail could interface with the CTA systems and run from transfer points at the end of every CTA line into the suburbs. There could also be a light rail system between Chicago and Milwaukee instead of the heavy trains that Amtrak uses on the old Milwaukee Road trackage. It would give us modern convenient transportation for everybody.

Sprawl spreaders

Three items in last week's Lake County newspapers seem to fit a pattern: Waukegan's Lakehurst Mall is for sale for $30 million, less than it sold for years ago. A new subdivision may destroy an historic cemetery in a densely wooded area. Pro-development County Board members have put Dick Raftis, their defeated pal, back on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

What do these events have in common? They show that while our older lakefront towns, symbolized by Lakehurst Mall, are crumbling, the county's developers and the machine politicians with whom they maintain a cozy relationship keep pushing the suburban sprawl that is eating up acre after acre of old forests, productive fields, and historic sites. The two politicians most associated with that sprawl in residents' minds are Bob Depke and Dick Raftis, both of whom were kicked out of office last year by overwhelming margins.

Now Raftis is back in a position where he can continue to advance the Farm Bureau's agenda of developing the remaining open spaces in Lake County. The Farm Bureau has no interest in Waukegan, North Chicago, Zion, and other urban communities. They look out for the farmers and land speculators who own most of the undeveloped land left in unincorporated Lake County. But look who voted for Raftis: all the representatives of those older towns. Jim Stanczak, Deb Halas, Angelo Kyle, Audrey Nixon, and Jim LaBelle could have insisted on an appointment that would have looked more critically at the western sprawl that is helping to drain the lifeblood from their communities. Instead, they went along, Democrats and Republicans alike, with the pro-development machine.

Thank goodness for County Board members Sandy Cole, Carol Calabrese, Larry Leafblad, Martha Marks, Judy Martini, Suzi Schmidt, and Al Westerman, who think for themselves and didn't buckle under pressure to rubber stamp the Raftis deal.

What's next for the pro-development Republicans and their Democrat flunkies? Appointment of Bob Depke as chairman of the Public Building Commission?

SKIDMORE: Hopes to follow in Dad's footsteps as treasurer chairman. Skidmore also happens to be the deputy treasurer and has worked in the office for the past 13 years.

With straight-ticket voting no longer a powerful tool for dominant parties, early name recognition and hitting the campaign trail early and often are the strategies of today's successful candidates.

As such, Lake County Democratic Party Chairman Terry Link sees the treasurer's office as prime ground for a possible Democrat upset. Link said potential candidates are being canvassed for a number of offices at this time.

"Without the straight-party punch, I think you're going to see a different election in '98 than in years past," Link said.

He pledged a challenge from the Democrats.

"I knew his father (Skidmore Sr.). He was a very nice gentleman," Link said, "but he (Skidmore Jr.) is going to have to run on his own merits, not just his name recognition."

Possibly with that in mind, Skidmore has already begun lining up his campaign team a mere eight months before the March 17 primary.

Nevertheless, family members and friends have quickly stepped forward to lead the campaign team and to keep the Skidmore lineage alive in the treasurer's office. Topping the list of eager foot soldiers include Art Elliot, the former campaign manager for Skidmore Sr., and his mother, Edna.

"She will be the most vigorous 85-year-old on the campaign trail," Skidmore said of his "experienced" mother.

Section IV: The Town Clerk shall mail a copy of this determination to any employer and to any association of employers and to any person or association of employees who have filed their names and addresses, requesting copies of any determination stating the particular rates and the particular class of workers whose wages will be affected by such rates.

Section V: The Town Clerk shall promptly file a certified copy of this Ordinance with both the Secretary of State Index Division and the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois.

Section VI: The Town Clerk shall cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the area of a copy of this Ordinance, and such publication shall constitute notice that the determination is effective and that this is the determination of this public body.

After 40 years, Anderson calling it quits as Treasurer

Final Hurrah still planned at Blarney's Island

By KEVIN HANRAHAN
Regional Editor

The party is over for Jack "Red" Anderson.

Or should we say his famous Blarney Island political parties will come to an end in August.

Anderson, who has served as Lake County Treasurer since 1978, announced last week he is calling it quits.

"I have spent two-thirds of my life in this office," said Anderson, 63, who worked in the treasurer's office since 1958 before being elected to the top post in 1978.

Anderson surprised many with his public announcement Friday. He said he, for the time being, intends to complete his term, which expires in 1998.

Instead of planning for the next election, Anderson said he looks forward to planning to spend more time with his wife Betty "Babe" and his grandchildren.

Born and raised in Waukegan and now living in Gurnee, Anderson has more ambitious sites to visit as part of his retirement. He said he wants to begin mapping out various trips to sites across the country.

"I want to go fishing and golfing and I want to travel," Anderson said. "I want to see the United States. I don't want to go to Europe. I want to see the United States."

But the past four decades have been committed to the Treasurer's Office. During that time, Anderson has watched the property tax collection grow from $34 million in 1958 to its current $890 million.

He computerized the Treasurer's

Office in 1979 and has begun the latest studies to upgrade the computerization of the office and to link it with the 18 township assessor's offices.

Under Anderson's tenure, the Lake County Treasurer's Office was thought to be a statewide model in terms of financial policies and procedures. "A lot of things we have done are now state laws," Anderson proudly said.

Anderson gained a reputation for building a professional, up-front office that caters to the needs, concerns and questions of Lake County taxpayers.

"Red has done an outstanding job in maintaining the integrity of the office and keeping it as user-friendly as a Treasurer's Office can be," noted John Schullen, Lake County Republican Party chairman.

Anderson will host his final "Hurrah" party at Blarney's Island Aug. 17.

The party may be a final "Hurrah" in more ways than one, as Anderson hinted:

"That's when we'll know if I stay for the term."

gave them an agenda when they were elected."

Quayle also expressed concern with discussions about whether or not Congress should be able to shut the government down.

"When Ronald Reagan was President, we shut the government down about a dozen times," Quayle said. "You know what, people didn't miss it. Sometimes you have to do that to get everything worked out, which usually happens in a couple of hours."

Quayle acknowledged President Bill Clinton has a nationwide approval rating of 55 percent or more, but says he still disagrees with his philosophies on government and believes he is taking the country in the wrong direction.

"We need conviction politicians in office today. We are going to rebel across America and put in the right leaders. We have a morale crisis across this country and we need people in government who believe in God, the American people and who want to work for the American people," Quayle said.

Help bad parents

I'm calling in response to "Teaching kids safety." I agree that it is upsetting and sad that there are irresponsible parents letting their small children play outside unsupervised. The fact is that although you and I are in agreement, these parents don't see a problem until it slaps them in the face. Remember the phrase, "It takes a village to raise a child?" I suggest you take a few moments to supervise these children to insure their safety momentarily. I'm sure most parents would be out there in a heartbeat, wondering why another adult is parenting their children. Then you pass on the responsibility and go on with your life. It only takes sperm and egg to create a child, but it takes love and education to create a good parent. Good parents have to teach the not-so-good parents if we want to live in a community that is happy and safe for everyone.

Mundelein

Need playset rules

I live in Lake Zurich and there seems to be a contest with these young people and their children as to who can put the biggest playset in their backyard. There should be regulations on them. My neighbor has a two-tower playset that takes almost half the yard up and it depreciates the value of our homes because this only appeals to young people. We should have size regulations.

Your choice; don't whine

This is in response to the teacher basher. You made a choice to stay home for six years and start over, so why whine about it? I don't feel that I'm better than you, but let's face it, more degrees usually equals more pay. The taxpayers didn't pay for my masters degree. I took out loans that I'm still paying back. As an English teacher, I have one lunch period and one planning period. I eat lunch at my desk and grade papers both periods. I get to work at 7 a.m. to do photocopying and leave at 4 p.m. I agree that some teachers might not work as much, but I do. By the way, I never was disagreeing with the idea of year-round school, I'm all for it. Teachers and students don't need this time off. However, since we are given summers off, I'll enjoy mine.

Round Lake Beach

For year-round school

Because now all the families have to have two wage earners to make what the salary of what one teacher makes, we need to have year-round school and longer school days so we can give people a break so they don't have to worry who's watching the kids between 3 and 5 p.m. We need year-round school, longer school days, two weeks off a quarter and that's it.

Parents responsible

I'm calling in response to "I scream, you scream." I'm a homeowner in Round Lake Beach and I think it's the responsibility of the parents to watch their kids rather than getting rid of the ice cream truck.

Fox Lake is great

I'm calling in response to "No place to live." I think Fox Lake is a great town. I think more towns need to be more like it. Do you see all these gangs like you do in Round Lake and McHenry? Let's keep it clean and keep a good town going like it was 60 years ago. I think it's good we don't build all kinds of places.

Need more cops

I'm calling to ask the Round Lake Beach police department to get more cops in the Meadowgreen area. There was another shooting there this last week. How many people have to get shot or killed before they get more police protection or a watchman back there?

Boch's reaching kids

I would like to thank Officer Boch of Round Lake. He's working with children in Round Lake schools and telling them about drugs. I know for a fact that he's reached one kid, my nephew. He talks great about Officer Boch and how he's learning about what drugs do. Thanks, Officer Boch!

Round Lake

Great derby

I wanted to thank the Round Lake Firefighters Association and the Round Lake Police Lodge for sponsoring a wonderful fishing derby. It was great to see all the kids out there having fun. The prizes were great. Whether you caught a fish or not, you got something really cool. I want to say it was very well run and it was something I will look forward to attending each year. Thanks to the sponsors, too.

Don't need development

I'm very mad at the new mayor and trustees. In the last election, they said they were sick of development and then on TV I saw them talking about a new industrial park. Now they've got trucks down Quentin Rd. and they're widening it. Aren't we allowed to live in peace and quiet without trucks going up and down the street, and a four-lane highway? I don't need all this development.

Lake Zurich

Tops in tax, but that's it

I was just reading in Money Magazine that Illinois is in the top 15 states for the highest taxes in the country. Even so, Illinois schools, roads, parks, and other amenities aren't in the top 15. Please tell me, where are all our tax dollars going? It's sure not going where it needs to go.

Round Lake Beach

Isn't it illegal?

This is in response to the wetland that's been filled in Lindenhurst this past week. It's on the west shore of Lake Linden. The area was a swampy area that was loaded with a lot of wildlife, frogs, snakes, turtles, etc. I took my small children there every day and one day there was a backhoe filling it in. I talked to the operator who said he was doing what he was told. It's my understanding that it's illegal to fill in wetland. This should be looked into. I'm calling the EPA.

Just gossip column

In the May 29 issue of Lipservice, a Fox Lake resident complained about Ron Hoehne undertaking landscaping instead of repairing streets. Why doesn't this resident call Hoehne instead of whining and complaining in Lipservice? If someone can call Lipservice and discredit people, they should be required to publish their name and address. It proves that Lipservice is just a gossip column with no regard for the truth or journalistic ethics.

John J. Smith
Smith Engineering
McHenry

Editor's Note: Callers are required to leave their name and phone number. Names are not printed however, unless the caller requests.

Bad karma

This is to the individual who lives in Island Lake who has the baited cat trap. I think you're a sick, twisted individual. I hope the evil you perform comes back to you a hundred fold. I'm not one of the owners of your victims. I'm just a neighbor who thinks you're a disgusting individual who traps cats and tortures them.

Island Lake

Fly the flag

Another holiday is coming up, the Fourth of July. I was wondering if we are going to fly the flag like we should and be proud of our country? I think they should honor both the Union and Confederate forces who fought against each other. If the American flag is being flown, they need it to be the Confederate flag. This is just a part of American history.

Antioch

The vote stops here

I called State Rep. Vera Clayton to see when Route 53 was going through and she said 10 years. Apparently they plan on funneling all of the traffic through Lake Zurich. Since when do the neighboring communities around here have a right to dump all their problems on us? I think this is a big division between rich and poor. Vera Clayton nor State Sen. Peterson will get my vote in the future, because they don't represent Lake Zurich.

Lip is great!

I like Lipservice because I can call in any time when I've got something on my mind and it will be printed for everyone to see. Because my call is anonymous, I can praise or complain about the people, places or things here and not have to worry about someone coming down on me. You can read my stuff and take it or leave it, but at least you know where someone in the community stands on something. You can find similar comment on the Internet, only this is close to home.

Grayslake

What a joke

The Chicago Dept. of Aviation has just announced it will do its night flights over parks and railroad tracks, etc. to cut down the noise at night over populated areas. I've yet to see this, I think it's a laugh. Are they going to fly over Long Grove or Barrington Hills? I think they'll keep flying over the paths they have been. One woke me up three times in one night. It's a joke.

You're the ones

I work in retail and the people that come into the stores and steal products that are 99 cents or under $5, or open them to test them and pick out a different one don't realize they're the ones who are making inflation and causing high prices.

Promises, promises

The previous mayor promised us we wouldn't have as many power outages if we had more power north of the city. When ComEd put their station north of the city, they ran telephones all over our neighborhoods where the power cables for the neighborhoods are buried, but we now have a lot of crooked telephone poles. It seems like the village considering putting in an industrial park when we're not even going to have air conditioning seems fool-hardy.

Lake Zurich

Safety hazard

This is in regard to the woman with the children in the gray van that has been parking in the fire lane all over Gurnee. I don't know who you are but that's illegal. I'm surprised you haven't gotten a ticket yet. This is a safety hazard, please don't park there any more.

Works for cats, too

I wanted to comment on Jerry Pharr's corner about trying to give a cat a pill. I love Jerry's column and I always have. He's wonderful! But I was wondering about his last sentence. Rather than going through all that with the cat, why not take his own advice and put the pill in some liver sausage for the cat as well?

No role model

After reading the front page of the June 19 paper, I'd like to comment on how anyone who took that amount of money could be considered a good role model for young girls and still be able to manage a team. This is grand theft and family are allowed to pay it back so there's no punishment.

Fox Lake

There's reasons

This is to the person who wrote "Reality check." The educational system is not based on agriculture. Do you want your kids going to school in the summer in 100-degree weather in a closed classroom with no air conditioning. That's how most of the schools are. They have too much time off in the summer because they're burned out in the winter, just like the teachers. If you put your kid in school from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the day, they're up at 6 a.m. and get home at 6 p.m. Do you want your 6-year-old to have a 12-hour day? When will they be a child? And teachers work six hours a day? Get real yourself! I'm a teacher and have to be at work at 7:15 a.m. I don't get off until 3 p.m. To me, that's 7 hours and 45 minutes. Then I do almost 2-3 hours of paperwork each night, every night. So, I put in 50 weeks of 40 hours a week, only I do it in nine months. So you find me a job where I can teach six hours a day, and get 18 weeks off during the summer (it's only 11, by the way), and I'll take it!

Leave the tradition

I'm calling in response to "I scream, you scream." It's not the problem of the ice cream trucks, but the parents who don't teach their kids how to be safe on the road. This has nothing to do with ice cream trucks. What needs to happen is for parents to have a wake-up call about safety. Whatever you do, keep the trucks. It's a relief on a hot day, and a little bit of old-time tradition. I'm 14 and I haven't had a lot of tradition like the milk men that used to come around.

Round Lake Beach

Traffic's ridiculous

I want to complain about the new light they put in a couple of months ago on Grass Lake Road and Route 59. When you're on Grass Lake Road going east, you can't even make a right hand turn because they won't allow you to drive on the paved shoulder. Sometimes you sit through three lights just to make a turn or go straight. The traffic jam is ridiculous. Especially now in the summer, with all the extra people out here.

Antioch

Prosecute!

I'm calling in regard to the treasurer supposedly misappropriating the funds for the Grant Township Little League. She didn't misappropriate the funds, she stole it. Why else would the family pay it back? All she's receiving is a slap on the wrist. She deserves to be prosecuted and lose her coaching and managing position at the township. Why she's able to stay there is beyond me. Most parents I've spoken to aren't too happy about this. The reporters need to spend some time at the baseball field to get parent and sponsor opinions.

Stop the buses

I think it's time to have vouchers for schools and get rid of District 95. They have no respect for any of the villages where they operate. The principal or the superintendent of schools don't care about residents when they complain. I thought school was out, yet school buses are running down the street with only two or three kids. Wouldn't it be cheaper to have the kids go in a cab? A lot of money is being funneled for buses to run down our streets in the summer. This is obscene.

Don't blame coyotes

I'm calling to voice my concern about a dog that was killed by coyotes in Libertyville. You can't blame the coyotes. I don't know why the town doesn't have a leash law. You shouldn't leave dogs or cats running around loose. Why don't they have a fence around their house so they can watch the dog? It's a shame but things can be done to protect your animal. You can't blame anyone but yourself.

Where are you?

For the person who had the comments about owning the business in Grayslake and the corporation stealing from them, I maybe can give you some help, but I don't know how to reach you. Can you call in with your number?

Monitor felines, too

I'm a Grayslake resident and I'm concerned that we patrol and watch our dogs and clean up after them. We create legislation for these things. But we seem to exclude cats. People allow them to run free and relieve themselves in yards. I don't see any legislation to monitor the feline population and I don't like that.

Parasites are disgusting

I just want to warn everyone to not let the kids go into Bangs Lake. My daughter has been going in at camp and she's coming home with red welts that itch. They said it was caused by some kind of parasite. They said it was harmless, but it's disgusting. They shouldn't let the kids go into the lake, it's not safe. We need a pool.

Incompetence

I was very disappointed to read that Mundelein will police Route 53 standards. If the construction on Midlothian Road and Route 176 is any indication of quality work on a timely basis, then everyone within Route 53 and the 342 corridor, beware.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Remember who you are

One of our family's good friends was Rev. Grover Senf. Before his death, he shared the following story in a Sunday morning sermon. I don't remember the entire sermon, but the story made a lasting impression.

Brother Grover and his lovely wife Mamie felt that their children should be exemplary young people since they were "preacher's kids." When they would leave the house Brother Grover would always say, "Remember who you are and what you stand for."

The parting reminder became an ever present routine. As the children left for school each morning the parting words from dad were always "Remember who you are and what stand for."

One morning our two children left for school without the usual reminder from dad. The Senf's youngest daughter, Susan, was about 4-years-old at the time. When she realized the omission, she immediately jumped up from the table, dashed to the front door and at the top of her little voice shouted after the departing siblings, "Remember what your name is and do your stuff."

We laugh every time we think of the story. I share it not just to amuse you, but also to highlight the importance of remembering who we are and what we stand for.

An age-old question asked by man since the beginning of time is "Who am I?" There may be a second, accompanying question, "What am I here for?"

I can't answer these questions for you nor can you answer them for me. However, we all should do a little soul searching from time to time. It would be wise for us to ask ourselves who we really are and exactly what do we stand for.

Our character determines who we are. There is an adage that explains how we build character. It says, "Sow an act and you reap a habit. Sow a habit and you reap a character." Our character then, is the result of our actions and habits. We become what we do.

If our actions are courteous, patient, loving, forgiving, helpful, thoughtful, kind, generous, tolerant, diligent, ambitious, cheerful, consistent, honest and wise, our character will be the same. Who we are then is the sum of our actions and habits.

Proverbs 22:1 says, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches..." Our character is a reflection on our good name. Our name—who we are—is more important than how rich we are. I'd rather be poor and respected than wealthy and scorned. Of course, rich and respected is a nice combination.

One of the big problems of today is folks who don't stand for anything. They simply float along with the current public opinion. It takes courage to stand for something important, though unpopular.

It is like standing in the middle of a field with the roar of the crowd on one side and the whisper of our conscience on the other. A person of character will always hear his or her conscience and act appropriately.

The Bible and the Declaration of Independence both provide guidelines of what we should stand for. Read and follow the Ten Com-

Let them eat cake from the cakery

Decorating innovation puts photograph on a cake's top

By GLORIA DAVIS
Staff Reporter

In these days of plastic instant foods, no fat, no cal, and for the most part no taste food, there is an oasis of scrumptious bakery goods at the Lovin' from the Oven Cakery.

The constant traffic to and from the cakery, located at 655 Railroad Ave. in the Ace Hardware strip mall in Round Lake, which specializes in custom decorated cakes, is the proof of the pudding, or should we say cream pie.

Their newest cake decorating innovation puts a photograph on a cake's top. Lovin' from the Oven's new computerized lazer decorating can put your favorite photograph right into a cake's frosting, a baby's first pic on his first birthday cake, a wedding photograph on the top of a wedding anniversary cake, or a child's kindergarten graduation picture on a very large chocolate chip cookie.

This cutting edge decorating method, using food coloring to paint with instead of colored inks, can put a three-year-old's crayon drawing on a cake for Mom and Dad, as well as his cutest candid. Who says nothing tastes as good as it looks?

"Top quality, great service, and a value for your money make up the business foundation of the cakery," said Betty Slove.

Ken Slove, a master baker, learned his trade from his dad, from whom he also inherited a need for tasting good quality, quality you can dictate only when you are a business owner, ergo 1989's cakery opening.

Ken, Betty and their three children started Lovin' from the Oven in a 1,500 sq. ft. building, and hundreds of hard work-filled hours later, with an income that is fast approaching $1 million annually, and an outstanding word of mouth reputation, Lovin's delicious products are made by 12 trained professionals in a 4,000 sq. ft. bakery.

For the chocoholics, and we are many, the Slove's offer tantalizing chocolate cream pie, fudgier brownies, or yummy eclairs. If it's lip lickin' fat and calories one craves, try the creamier puffs made with European whip cream.

One of the Slove's most popular items was created by Ken's dad years ago, in Chicago, the pizza capitol of the world, a pizza coffee cake. It's a 16-inch-round pastry covered with rich custard and smothered with blueberries, cherries, apple slices, all topped with pecans and raisins.

The cakery's hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Sunday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Contractors celebrate 50 years

Lake County's leading construction industry association is celebrating their 50th anniversary.

Lake County Contractors Assn. was founded in 1947 for the advancement of the construction industry in Lake County to provide much-needed construction services to area developers, manufacturers and other construction users.

Committee co-chairmen Karen Johnson, Roughneck Concrete Drilling and Sawing Co., and Gary Edwards, American Acoustics and Plastering, are overseeing all aspects of the 50th anniversary celebration, which include events throughout the year.

"We're very excited about all of the plans to mark a half century of progress in Lake County," said Johnson. "LCCA has provided invaluable services to many, many people and businesses over the years. We're hoping the 50th anniversary year will be a special one."

LCCA's anniversary celebration began with a special recognition of former presidents of the association. An engraved gift was presented to each past president at the May membership meeting to acknowledge their contributions over the years and, a family picnic was held at Van Patten Woods June 21.

LCCA will have an entry in both the Waukegan and Lake Bluff Independence Day parades, Gurnee Days parade in August, and the Labor Day parade in Zion. A fully restored 1947 Ford flatbed truck will highlight the association's 50-year history of contributions to the construction industry and the development of the Lake County area.

Also, the Christmas party will feature a 1940s-style birthday party with cake, candles and favors to celebrate the founding of the association.

Additionally, LCCA is compiling a 50th anniversary commemorative booklet detailing the history and contributions of the association, as well as acknowledging some of the people who have participated in the many activities of the organization.

Over the years, LCCA members have contributed to the advancement and development of the Lake County area. For example, LCCA members donated time, materials, labor and expertise to help construct such landmarks as the Waukegan YMCA, the Exchange Club of Waukegan's band shell on the lakefront, and more recently, the LaCASA building, (Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault) in Gurnee.

Within the construction industry, LCCA has helped found and develop related organizations such as the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Assn., the Construction Industry Service Corp. and the Chicagoland Construction Safety Council, all of which are designed to promote safe, responsible, union construction work.

Today there are more than 260 member companies in LCCA. Members serve the community at-large on numerous private and charitable boards and committees, economic development task forces, educational commissions, and safety committees.

LCCA enjoys a proud history of promoting the construction industry in Lake County and looks forward to equal strides in the coming half century.

Lake County Contractors Assn., a leading construction-industry trade association of contractors, suppliers and related service firms, provides members with timely information, education and safety training, while protecting members' interests in government and labor relations. LCCA is a leader in promoting responsible economic development and contributes to the betterment of Lake County. By utilizing LCCA union contractors, purchasers of non-residential construction services are assured high quality at a competitive cost.

CLC program earns national accreditation

The College of Lake County's child-care center on the Grayslake Campus has earned accreditation renewal from the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs.

The three-year renewal was granted after and intensive evaluation process by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC), which sponsors the Academy. The process included an on-site study of the program and a final review by a three-member panel of commissioners who are experts in the field of early childhood education.

The renewal demonstrates that CLC's child-care program meets national standards of quality, said Sandy Groeninger, coordinator of the program. "We had to meet a variety of strict criteria related to providing a developmentally appropriate program for young children. We are proud to receive the honor from the nation's premier and largest organization for early childhood education professionals," she said.

The CLC child-care center provides preschool education for children 2 1/2 to 5 years old whose parents are CLC students or staff. Evening care is available for children up to age 12.

The center is managed by three full-time and seven part-time staff members, including teachers who have at least a two-year degree in early childhood education and assistant teachers who have completed at least six hours of early childhood education courses or are currently enrolled in an early childhood program. The center is open from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 6 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday. For further information call, 543-2345.

Commission sets 11 area code hearings

The Illinois Commerce commission will host 11 public forums in the Chicago metropolitan area to receive comments on plans to add a sixth area code to the region. Ameritech Illinois and the Citizens Utility Board have filed petitions with the Commission seeking a decision on plans to address the exhaust of telephone numbers within the 847 area. Ameritech, which serves as the administrator of telephone numbers in the region, has predicted that all numbers in the 847 area code will be allocated by late 1998.

Ameritech has proposed two alternatives (Docket 97-0211). In one case, all new customers to the area would receive the new area code. Under those circumstances everyone would be required to dial 11 digits when making a call.

An alternative proposal would split the area, east-west geographically, with the western portion of the service area retaining the 847 and the eastern portion assigned a new area code.

The Citizens Utility Board argued instead for a more efficient method of allocating telephone numbers, or conserving numbers until they are needed (Docket 97-0192).

CUB's proposal calls for distributing the numbers in smaller increments, to telecommunications carriers in the area served by 312, 773, 847, 630 and 708. Numbers are currently allocated to carriers in blocks of 10,000 upon request.

CUB noted that while many of the telephone numbers may not be assigned to customers for years, they remain unavailable to customers of any other carrier. A conservation plan would minimize telephone numbers held in reserve.

Public forums in the Lake County area are scheduled as follows:

- Antioch—Tuesday, July 1, 7 p.m., Council Chambers, 874 Main
- Waukegan—Monday, July 14, 7 p.m., Council Chambers, 106N. Utica.
- Barrington—Tuesday, July 15, 7 p.m., Public Safety Building, 121 W. Station St.
- Libertyville—Monday, July 21, 7 p.m., Council Chambers, 118 W. Cook Ave.

All hearings are held at accessible sites in compliance with state and federal law.

Those needing special accommodations may contact the Chief Clerk of the Commission either by letter at 527 E. Capitol Ave., Springfield, IL 60294 or by calling, (217)782-7434.

The Chief Clerk's Office is equipped with a telecommunications device for the deaf, which may be reached by calling (217)782-7434.

Bank, school become partners

Greenwood School is proud to have Waukegan Savings and Loan, SB as a Partner in Education.

Ted Stanulis, president of Waukegan Savings and Loan, SB announced that the bank has committed to underwrite the next 12 months of Greenwood's "Recycling for Tomorrow" program.

The partnership enables the school to continue its recycling efforts through the 1997-98 school year.

With recycling becoming a fact of life, the students are becoming aware what they can do to help decrease waste sent to existing landfills.

Greenwood was enrolled this year in SWALCO (Solid Waste Agency of Lake County) program that earned the school an Earth Flag on May 12. Greenwood is the fifth school in all of Waukegan to earn an Earth Flag.

The two-sided paper recycling and an all school Book Swap filled the criteria defined by the SWALCO.

The "Recycling for Tomorrow" program is carried out with the assistance of the Student Council, who collect used, two-sided paper and cardboard for recycling twice each week throughout the school year.

REMEMBER: Character is a reflection on our good name mandments in the Book of Exodus. Remember, the Declaration of Independence tells us that all men are created equal, that we are endowed by our Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

When I die I'd rather you remember me as a person of character and integrity than one of success. When I leave this earth I want to feel good about who I was and what I stood for. Don't you?

Several questions to ask before borrowing money

You may not be able to have your cake and eat it too but wise use of credit may let you come close.

To avoid creeping credit you should ask yourself several questions before you borrow money.

- How will added loan payments fit into my regular spending pattern?
- Will I have to go without things I need to buy this item?
- What's the difference between the total credit cost and the cash price?

- Will this item outlast the payments?
- Will I want this item as much when I'm making payments as I do now?

- Will this item improve family living, save time, protect health, increase income?

- Is my income certain for the length of time I'll make payments?

Your answers to these questions may answer the question of when and whether to use credit.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

I work in the Human Resource department of a mid sized company where I am responsible for finding, screening and interviewing applicants for positions within a variety of departments. While I am able to keep up with the paper flow and the tedious chore of interviewing, I am finding that I cannot get the department heads to act quick enough to accomplish the final result...the hiring! While I have been with this company for 3 years nothing seems to have changed. The company has a 2 interview process and the department heads all have positions that need to be filled immediately. When it comes to making a move, they drag their feet until it is too late. I am finding myself repeatedly trying to fill the same employment slots over and over, not because the candidates aren't qualified, but rather because by the time these department heads make their decisions, the candidates have taken jobs elsewhere. I have spent the past 6 weeks interviewing for 4 different positions for which I had a minimum of 3 candidates for each for these supervisors and managers to meet. First interviews went well, with the supervisors. The problem seems to be in chasing the managers all over to get them to commit to the second interview. The position I am in can often be a thankless one yet, I love what I do. Changes need to be made. I don't know quite what the changes should be as yet, but I am working on a presentation. Do you have any suggestions that could possibly aid me in my presentation? Thanking you in advance for your help.

K.G.—Vernon Hills

Dear K.G.,

First thing is to know the type of employment market you are currently faced with. Understand that the job market is strong and jobs plentiful. While you will see more and more positions advertised in the newspaper, that does not even begin to touch the surface of thousands that are not advertised. Along with this type of market comes the employment seeking individual who seldom puts "all their eggs in one basket", so to speak. During the time that you may be interviewing them for a position within your company, they may, and most likely are, exercising several employment options, often taking the first thing that comes up. (Obviously not always recommended). Therefore, it is essential that the employers do not, "drag their feet." These candidates in this market are here today and gone tomorrow. You must convince your managers and supervisors of the sense of urgency that has been placed in your hands by them. In order for you to operate in the manner to which you can best utilize your time and skill, changes need to be made, as top candidates are ending up at other corporations and possibly the competition, due to the current problems in expediting the hiring process. My suggestion: When finding candidates that you believe are well suited for these positions, schedule the first and second interviews on the same day. Have each supervisor and manager when insuring you a order for hire, also supply you with a full weeks worth of availabilities in 30 minute increments. Match these up so that both parties can meet on the same day to either hire or rule out the individual. You will find that this works to your advantage all the way. It will alleviate your problem of losing good applicants and will inevitably make you a hero when your abilities show through and the lengthy hiring process problems are gone.

MARTHA

For a young family planning to build their first home, or empty nesters wanting to downsize current living accommodations, the 1,605 square foot Martha deserves a good look. This floor design delivers more for your building dollar than many comparable sized plans on the market.

An attractive wood siding exterior, trimmed in brick and topped by wood shakes, is pleasing to the eye. A generous front porch with waist high railing and front facing garage give an added symmetry to the Martha.

The entry leads directly into the vaulted family room. This room is the hub of the Martha and large enough to entertain friends and family in comfort. Appealing plant shelves are available over the stairs leading to an optional basement. To the left of the entry is a unique hearth room. Built with either hardwood or tile flooring, and featuring a cozy fireplace, this room is the perfect spot for quiet conversations or rainy day reading.

The two secondary bedrooms are both well proportioned and are divided by a full bathroom. One of these, if not in use, could be converted to a home office, music or sewing room. Each has ample closet space and a window.

The master bedroom is quite impressive for a home this size. Amenities include a large closet with mirrored doors, personal access to the large back deck and private skylit bathroom.

The bright kitchen area, in addition to all the built-in appliances, has a nice walk-in pantry, garden window and roomy breakfast nook. There is also a door to the back deck, where the whole gang can enjoy sunny summer barbecues.

A handy utility room is conveniently located near the inside access to the garage.

For a study kit of the MARTHA (337-011LP60) or a Dream Home Book, send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark Designs, or call 1-800-562-1151.
